

FEAR LIVES LOST IN MOTOR BOAT FIRE

FIRE ENVELOPES CRAFT AT NIGHT: SCREAMS HEARD

Police Boats Seek Charred Hull of Launch Thought Burned

OFF SANDY HOOK

Attempt Made to Reach Ship Unavailing—Check is Made

New York, Aug. 11.—Police and fire boats today combed the waters of the lower bay and the ocean off Sandy Hook in search of the charred hull of a motor launch in which, it was feared, a number of lives were lost at midnight. Persons on Coney Island's sands saw the flaming ship about two miles off shore.

"It looked like a large motor launch," Charles Gerheim, a Coney Island patrolman, said today. "Flames enveloped the entire craft. The cries of men for help, and the shrill scream of a woman could be plainly heard."

Gerheim with Herbert VonBergen, a life guard, set out in a rowboat, the only craft at hand, in an effort to reach the burning ship.

The tide, however, forced them back and a call was sent for the fireboat Gaylor.

Police boats were rushed from the Battery but could not find the vessel. "The last we saw of it, the flames had reached the waterline and the launch apparently was drifting toward Sandy Hook," Gerheim said. "The cries had been stifled," the policeman added.

Authorities believe a pleasure party, out for the holiday yesterday was returning aboard the launch. A check was being made of craft in the bays near Coney Island today in an effort to identify the vessel.

Earlier last night police went to the rescue of the launch Edith K. said to be owned by J. K. Birch and his son, Howard, of Brooklyn. The Birch's boat, which at the time carried two other men, had developed motor trouble and was being tossed about by the sea.

Birch, however, told police he did not need assistance.

The burning boat, sighted two hours after this was in almost the same location as Birch's boat had been, the police said.

BRITISH NOTE IS SENT TO ALLIES CHALLENGES FRENCH

London, Aug. 11.—The foreign office is expected to forward a note to Paris this evening expressing Great Britain's disapproval of the French Ruhr policy. It is understood the communication will reject the French proposal in regard to debt cancellation.

According to authoritative sources, the note will maintain Great Britain cannot make any further concessions to France unless the French are willing to take a more reasonable view of the reparations crisis.

The note is said to be friendly in tone, but emphatic in wording.

London, Aug. 11.—Premier Baldwin and Lord Curzon, foreign minister, have prepared a note to France and Belgium, which were handed to their ambassadors today, in which Britain for the first time openly officially protests against the occupation of the Ruhr as a violation of the treaty of Versailles.

Britain states firmly that paragraph 18, upon which France justifies the peace time war waged against Germany, does not authorize military action by the French and can not be invoked to justify the sanctions imposed upon a beaten nation.

The note also insists that no one or two of Germany's creditors are entitled to depreciate her common credits by individual action, as it is obvious that the more France and Belgium depreciate Germany's capacity for payment by military methods, the higher will be the percentage required from the allies to meet Britain's debt to America. The note, it is declared, makes it plain that Britain under no circumstances will accept a proposal that Germany should the debts of the allies to Britain and the United States.

This firm stand is said to be really due to the program adopted at a recent dinner of former coalitionists at the home of Lord Birkenhead, at which it was decided to insist that Britain must challenge the legality of the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr, and that there must be a readjustment of reparations along the lines of Bonar Law's proposals of last January. The text of the note will be published Monday.

WILL ONE OF THESE BE NEXT G. O. P. NOMINEE?

By virtue of his office President Calvin Coolidge becomes a likely candidate for the Republican nomination in 1924, which politicians agree would have been given to President

Harding if he had lived. It is likely that Senator Hiram Johnson, of California; Senator Robert M. La Follette, Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois; Secretary of State Charles Evans

Hughes, Governor General Leonard Wood, of the Philippines, and Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover will all be boomed by their followers for the honor of leading the party in the 1924 campaign.

Coolidge Will Take Immediate Steps To Prevent Threatened Coal Strike

President Determined That There Shall Be No Shortage of Fuel During Coming Winter—Prepared to Wield "Big Stick" If Necessary to Eliminate Danger Of General Tie-Up.

Washington, Aug. 11.—President Coolidge will "act formally" to prevent a cessation of work in the anthracite coal fields, it was learned today.

The President is determined there shall be no shortage of fuel during the winter, with its attendant hardships and sufferings to the people, it was declared by his closest advisers. He is prepared to wield the proverbial "big stick" in forcing a settlement of differences between anthracite operators and miners.

The President has passed this ultimatum along to government officials in close touch with the situation.

Above all, he has told them there shall be no strike September 1, as was threatened when recent wages negotiations were stopped by operators and miners.

The anthracite problems is one of the new administration's most critical and immediate concerns. Mr. Coolidge has realized it too, for he has told his advisers that the way must be found to prevent a strike and to insure continuous production of fuel.

The President has been told that the real crisis will not be reached until next week, but after that time the hard coal output would be jeopardized by further disagreement between operators and miners.

A voluntary settlement seems remote. Neither side has shown any disposition to yield an inch. The conference broke over establishment of the check off system and both contending factions have remained adamant.

President Coolidge first leaped into national prominence by his forceful handling of the Boston police strike. An almost coincidental situation may give him his first great opportunity as leader of the nation. Those close to the President said today he was going to dig into the anthracite problem with the same determination and unswerving resoluteness that marked the quelling of the Boston strike.

Three immediate plans are known to be under consideration for effecting a settlement:

1.—Intervention of Secretary of Labor Davis, who returns to this country Monday and the coal commission to act as mediators between the contending forces.

2.—Summoning of operators and miners to the White House for a round table discussion.

3.—Use of a threat of government seizure of the mines.

A decision may be expected shortly, possibly early next week, as the situation becomes more critical.

Labor officials have been in constant touch with all "negotiations" and it seemed certain today that Davis would step in, in the role of peacemaker.

If Davis' efforts are futile, President Coolidge himself plans to summon both factions and tell them point-blank that the country never will stand for a strike, that disputes must be reconciled and a steady supply of hard coal be taken from the mines for the approaching winter months. He will inform the disputants the distressing situation of last year in the bituminous field, cannot be tolerated in the anthracite mines. Seizure would be the last resort. It would not be as effective in the long run as the other plans but the threat, at least, when all else has failed, would line up public sentiment behind the administration's "no strike" edict, in the belief of observers here. It is not believed either side would care to bring down deliberately the country's wrath.

Seizure might not insure the essential continuous output. Anthracite miners in Pennsylvania are required to serve a two year apprenticeship.

Coal mining is a specialized trade and the ordinary laborer cannot be shoved into the mines, officials pointed out.

If this emergency were resorted to, the government to get a steady supply would be compelled to accede to the miners' demands in getting them to return to work, it was pointed out. It is believed operators would hesitate to have mines seized and welcome an agreement with their workers.

PATROLMAN KILLED

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 11.—Patrolman Lawrence M. Klump, 35, was killed early today when climbing a flight of stairs to the second floor of a building at 706 West Fifth street. He was shot while chasing a Negro, it is said, when the black turned and fired the fatal bullet.

MANY THOUSANDS LEAVE MARION DESERTED AFTER FUNERAL SERVICES

Worn and Bedraggled Ohio City Left to Its Own Sorrow as Visitors Pay Last Tribute to Dead President and Depart.

AGED FATHER SILENTLY MOURNS FOR SON

Guard of Soldiers Maintains Guard About Tomb of Warren G. Harding—City Yesterday Shrine Of Nation's Homage.

Marion, O., Aug. 11.—The littered streets seem deserted, the last guest has gone, and Marion today was a tired and worn, bedraggled little Ohio city—the town that yesterday was the shrine of a nation's homage to a beloved dead president.

The few remaining whiffs of grief sodden and limp in dejection along the route that led to Marion's beautiful little cemetery, where today a federal guard, twenty-five men and one officer from Companies K and M, Fort Hayes, Columbus, stand silent vigil over the entombed remains of their dead commander. They will maintain their guard before the ivy-covered portals for six months.

Marion's day of glory is done. Thrust into the limelight of the country's vision three years ago by the election of her distinguished son to the highest office a great and free people can give, with him she rose to the heights. Now he is gone, and Marion's fame in the years to come will be as "Harding's home town."

"No plans for a memorial mausoleum for the late president have been completed," Hoke Donithen, president of the Marion Civic Association, declared today. "There will be one sometime, somewhere near Marion, of course. The friends of the dead president from all over the country desire it as well as his neighbors and fellow townsmen here. It is entirely fitting and proper. But Mrs. Harding must be consulted and in this as every other way, her wishes shall govern."

Mr. Donithen emphatically denied the report that a drive was to be started next week to raise $3,000,000 as a fund for the memorial. The American people to whom he endeared himself will see to it that a shrine befitting the eminence of the beloved dead president will be built, Mr. Donithen said.

Out East Center street, in an unpretentious frame house the blinds are drawn and within sits a pathetic old man, broken in spirit and body, surrounded by memories in a room still heavy with the fragrance of the blossoms that spoke the tribute of a sorrowful multitude. Sunk in misery, the evening of life stretches ahead in blackness, without the comforting light that seemed his rightful heritage, the companionship of a cherished son.

The way of sorrow, the last step of the long trail that leads to the tomb where Warren G. Harding, citizen of Marion, rests in peace, is a dusty two miles of desolation. Along the sidewalks the grass is worn away to the earth beneath. The leaves of the trees hang heavy with their burden of fine grey soil. At the burial grounds, a squad of men today was clearing away the mass of strown paper, trampled grass and bits of rubbish that crowd, even a reverential and sorrowful mass of humanity as was yesterday leave in its wake.

And Marion today, a desolate city, took up the burden of daily routine with a groping sense of empty loss that not even time itself, to the present generation, may entirely assuage.

Dr. George T. Harding, Sr., the aged father of the dead president, "is feeling very bright today, after his rest last night," Mrs. E. E. Remsburg, the late president's sister, said.

Time, the eternal comforter, was here with healing balm for sore-racked hearts and Marion "carried on."

TWO DEAD AND SEVEN ALLEGED MOONSHINERS ARE IN JAIL

Feud Outbreak In Kentucky Leads to Trouble—Telephone System Destroyed by Band of Whiskey Makers.

Hazard, Ky., Aug. 11.—Two men are dead and seven alleged moonshiners are in jail here today, as the result of a feud outbreak, sweeping this section of Kentucky's mountains. An organized band of moonshiners in Berry County, has destroyed the meagre telephone system of that remote district and the only information available here is that brought in by messengers.

Dinnie Williams killed Hiram Middleton in a quarrel at Kilday, Harlan County, late yesterday, officers learned. They arrested Williams and enroute to the county jail on a train crowded with miners returning from work when friends of Middleton fired into the train, killing Williams instantly. Arrests in connection with this crime are expected today.

The seven prisoners taken were brought in by the sheriff's posse that went to the rescue of a small squad of dry riders, headed by R. L. Stewart, state prohibition agent, who were besieged on Lost Creek. The dry agents seem to have scattered into adjoining counties and rumors vary as to their whereabouts today.

Drink Cost Lafayette Flier His Wife.

Mrs. U. H. Johnson.

Pretty Mrs. Ursula Hooper Johnson, San Francisco society woman, was given a divorce from Major C. Chouteau Johnson, war hero, of the Lafayette Escadrille composed of American aviators serving in the French army, because he drank too much, according to the story, she told in court. He is a member of a prominent New York family. She was awarded the custody of their baby daughter, all of their household furniture and $200 a month alimony.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Cleveland, Aug. 10.—Willoby Love, 28, was killed, and Jessie Horne is believed dying as the result of a quarrel with James Miller, according to police. Miller was charged with murder.

CUNO GOVERNMENT WANTS TO RESIGN

London, Aug. 11.—Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno has presented his resignation to President Ebert, but it was rejected, said a Central News dispatch from Berlin this evening.

The German political situation is described as critical.

MARKS AGAIN TUMBLE.

Cologne, Aug. 11.—German marks again tumbled in price today, causing the utmost confusion in the money changing markets. Brokers had difficulty in keeping up with the exchange rates.

INDEMNITIES DEMANDED.

Peking, Aug. 11.—Representatives of the four foreign powers whose nationals were kidnapped by the Suichow train bandits early last May, presented to the Chinese government their demands for indemnities. The diplomatic representatives acted as a committee of the whole in arriving at the reparations demands. They have been at work since early in June, after the release of the foreigners after more than a month's captivity.

NEW PRESIDENT BEGINS DUTIES IN WASHINGTON

Plunges Into Mass of Political and Executive Business

CHRISTIAN RESIGNS

Edward T. Clark Slated To Occupy Post of Private Secretary

Washington, Aug. 11.—The first cabinet meeting of the Coolidge administration will be held next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock, it was announced officially this afternoon at the temporary "White House."

President Coolidge issued the call informally after a series of conferences in which eight cabinet members visited him at his presidential suite in the Willard Hotel. The absentees were Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Secretary of Labor Davis who are abroad.

It was also announced the president will decide on Monday whether he will meet Washington correspondents after the cabinet meetings.

Washington, Aug. 11.—President Coolidge returned to the capital today to plunge directly into a mass of political and executive business. The presidential special, which brought the chief executive back from attendance at the Marion funeral of the late President Harding, reached Washington at 7:55 a. m. after a record run from the Ohio town. The president went immediately to his temporary "White House" in the Willard Hotel.

The president arose early today "eager to get back to work."

While the presidential special was racing along through West Virginia, the new executive ordered the train's speed increased so he might reach Washington earlier than at first intended.

The sudden resignation of George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the president, was the chief topic of conversation aboard the train. Christian made his announcement before President Coolidge left Marion.

When word was sent to the executive, the following statement was issued in behalf of him:

"The president regrets to hear the report that Mr. Christian has resigned. He has not yet seen the resignation and therefore has no statement to make."

It is confidently expected the president will immediately appoint Edward T. Clark, his personal secretary, to the vacancy. Clark is one of the most popular men in the capital and was associated with the president while he occupied the vice presidency.

ALLEGED FORGER SENT TO PRISON

Roy Brown, Cedarville, indicted for forgery by the Grand Jury last Monday, was sentenced to one year in the state penitentiary in Common Pleas Court Saturday morning.

Brown was arraigned and entered a plea of guilty. He was represented in court by Attorney F. L. Johnson, appointed by the court. Mrs. Emma Johnson, of Spring Valley, was arraigned on a charge of issuing checks without funds, but her case was continued until Monday morning, pending further investigation. She is being represented by Attorney Harry D. Smith.

WILL INCREASE FACULTY.

Delaware, O., Aug. 11.—Increased work in astronomy and mathematics to be offered at Ohio Wesleyan university here, following installation of the school's new telescope, will necessitate addition of two new faculty members in the mathematics department, it has been announced. D. L. Holl, a graduate of Manchester college, Indiana, and Ohio State, will become assistant professor of mathematics and another full time professor will be added to the department.

WOMAN ATTACKED BY ROBBERS.

Norwalk, O., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Theodore J. Adelman was found unconscious, gagged and tied to her kitchen range here. The house had been ransacked by robbers. A diamond ring, a $5 gold piece and other property were missing.

NEW PRESIDENT IN WASHINGTON AFTER ATTENDING FUNERAL

Washington, Aug. 11.—Further evidence piled up on top of Senator Moses' launching of a Coolidge boom for the presidential nomination, indicating that the new president, whom it was said leaned strongly to the world court, has satisfied Republican leaders as to his position on the question.

Some of the senators and other politicians who had talked to him on the train from Marion, O., came out of his private car with a distinct impression that he intends to make his attitude clear on this vital issue at an early date. One senator went so far to say that he got a plain hint of the president's plan. He declined to divulge the nature of the hint, but plainly indicated in his manner that he was well pleased.

It was indicated in those quarters that Mr. Coolidge, while careful not to repudiate President Harding's stand, will find a way to "soft pedal" the court matter. Among all party managers who have had an opportunity to confer with him there is the belief that he is such a loyal party man that he will not ignore advice from the inner councils to espouse a cause that may endanger party harmony. For example, one Republican senator said President Coolidge will find himself so burdened with vital domestic problems that he will not have the time to devote to a campaign for the world court. The idea then is that he could get around the embarrassing feature involved in having to adopt or repudiate President Harding's position by merely saying in his message to congress that the court protocol is before the senate with the president's recommendation and nothing he could say would add to the situation. That would leave the foreign relations committee, which is overwhelmingly against the court, free to bury it in a pigeonhole.

This and other problems will come up at the Tuesday's cabinet meeting. The call for the first gathering of the official family under the new chief will go out Monday.

U. S. CONGRESSMAN VISIT IN MOSCOW

Moscow, Aug. 11.—After a week spent in Moscow in intensive investigation working 16 hours a day and rushing constantly from one appointment to another, the unofficial commission left for a 30-day trip to the Russian interior, Siberia and the Ukraine. The commission, headed by Senators King and Ladd and Congressman Frear, made inquiries while here into foreign relations, trade, banking finances, education, agriculture, co-operative organization and political questions. They also met most of the soviet leaders. While reserving their opinions, it may be stated that the commission is surprised at the evidences of trade revival here—at the great animation in Moscow, the economic life and the government activities.

CANOE PARTY IS IN CINCINNATI

Leaving Trebeins in a canoe Monday morning, a party of Xenia people arrived in Cincinnati at noon Friday, according to a card received Saturday from Robert H. Kingsbury, one of the party.

The party camped along the way, going by way of the Little Miami and Ohio rivers. Good weather marked the trip. The party consists of Mr. Kingsbury, Richard Sayre, Henry Eavey, Max Marshall and Edward Sayre of this city and Leon Siniard, of Madison, Ind., former Xenian.

ORDER CHANGED

Marion, O., Aug. 11.—President Coolidge took quick action to countermand the order issued by Lieutenant Colonel Sherrill, "detaching" Major O. D. Baldinger from the position of military aide at the white house, to which he was assigned by President Harding. The president caused an order to be issued wherein it was stated that both he and Mrs. Coolidge are extremely fond of Major Baldinger and especially desire him to remain on duty as white house aide. It is understood President Coolidge was extremely displeased over the summary removal of Major Baldinger.

HENRY FORD'S CHANCES.

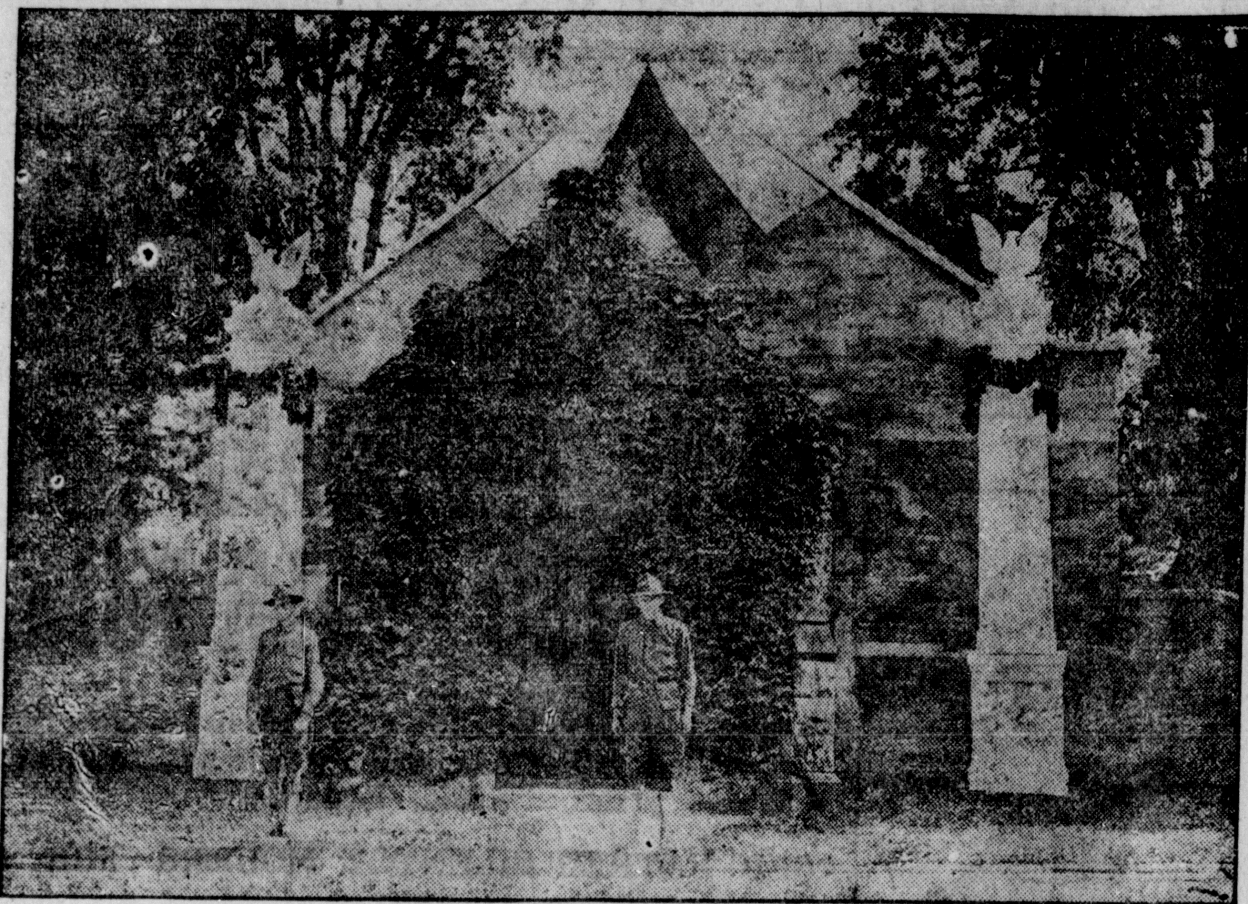

London, Aug. 11.—Here is a new way to figure just what chance Henry Ford has to be elected. According to the London Times, London underwriters have had a definite offer from the United States to pay $30,000 if the underwriters will undertake to pay $500,000 in the event of Mr. Ford's election in November, 1924. The underwriters are making an inquiry, as they think the premium offered is too low.

WRITER PASSES AWAY.

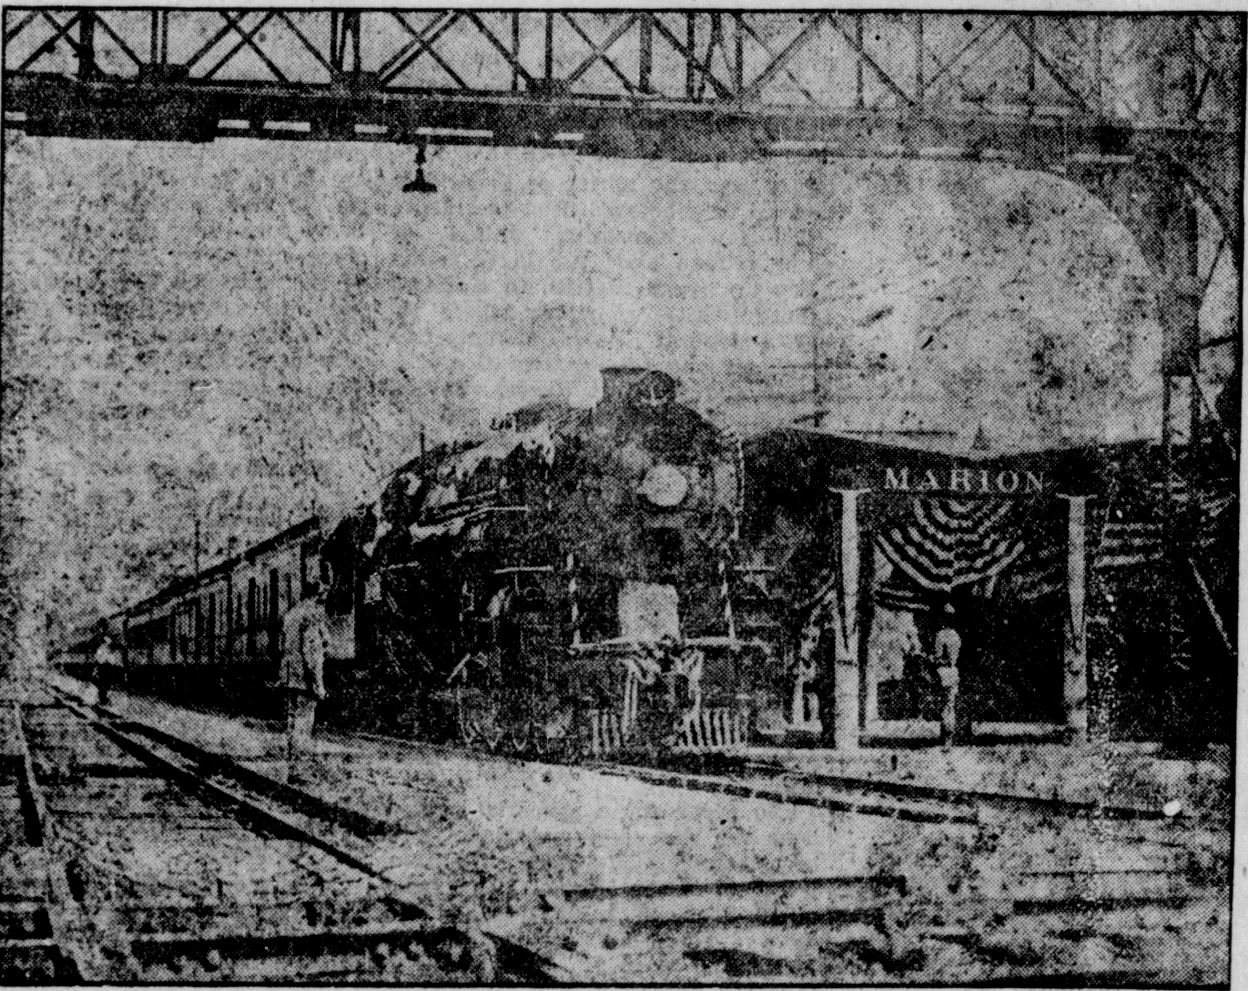

Youngstown, O., Aug. 11.—A single bouquet of exquisite gladioli on the battered old desk he had used for 27 years, marked the death of George McGuigan, 67, who conducted a column widely known as "The Evening Olio" in the Youngstown Vindicator.

MARION MOURNS AS DISTINGUISHED SON IS BURIED

CAPITAL PAYS ITS FINAL TRIBUTE TO LATE PRESIDENT

Beautiful Vine Covered Mausoleum in Marion Cemetery, Where the Body of Late President Harding Is at Rest Until a Permanent Site For Suitable Monument is Selected.

Special train from Washington reaches Marion, ending the long journey across the continent.

En Route From Station to the House of Dr. Harding, Where the Body Lay in State—It is Estimated that 75,000 Viewed the Remains and that 25,000 Were Still in Line and Turned Away When It Was Time for the Ceremonies.

Tens of thousands of men, women and children stood in line for hours, slowly moving toward the house of Dr. Harding, waiting their turn for a last look at their honored President and respected fellow townsman.

Styles BY LENORE

One of those costumes that are "different" even in these days of a multitude of varying ideas in fashion, takes a brightly patterned silk crepe frock as a foundation, and wears over it what might, I suppose, be called a sleeveless coat of plain silk crepe, in a color that repeats the ground color of the printed silk. The coat is entirely opened down the front, and is belted with suede in the same color or with a belt of its own material, and there is a tiny pocket to hold a handkerchief made of the printed silk.

As you have guessed from the sketch the foundation frock is made with a frill and collar that are worn outside the coat, or slip, and the skirt may be plain or pleated. Needless to emphasize the advantage of this sort of costume for traveling, or for those slightly cool days that do come to us even in August.

AUTOIST BADLY HURT.

HIGHWAYS JAMMED BY AUTOS FRIDAY

Marion, O., Aug. 11.—Three thousand national guardsmen, who had charge of policing the city during the Harding obsequies, were withdrawn this morning and Marion is again normal.

Feeding the thousands who crowded into the city from every part of the country taxed the restaurants. No rooms in hotels were available. Thousands walked the streets all night or rested on lawns along the sidewalks.

Automobiles jammed the highways for 50 miles in every direction. The prairies were alive last night with automobile lights. Thousands of cars were parked in fields outside the city and their occupants slept in them during the night.

Long after the funeral crowds continued to move about the Harding residence, where the body of the president had laid before the interment.

BODY RECOVERED.

Alliance, O., Aug. 11.—The body of Emmet Pettit, drowned at Lake Brady while out boating July 22, was recovered by life guards. A cottager at the lake noticed the body and notified park officials. Pettit was rowing two women, Mrs. Helen Schwab of Alliance and Miss Margaret Craige of Cleveland, across the lake when the boat capsized. The two women were rescued.

A beautiful roof of VULCANITE "HEXAGON" SLABS

Think of a handsome, red or green slate-surfaced roof—a roof of distinctive design—a roof that gives unusual protection as well as adds beauty and attractiveness to your home.

The Vulcanite "Hexagon" Slab Shingles, shown above, make such a roof. Their artistic slate surface; heavy, tough rigidity; and patented, hexagon design, produce an extra thick roof, with a deep, tile effect. They are easy and economical to lay over roof boards or old shingles—assure years of satisfactory service and give the best possible protection against fire and severe storms.

If you want a roof that will last 10, 15, even 20 years, inspect these Vulcanite "Hexagon" Slab Shingles. Let us give you the details.

HARDING MARTYR TO NATION SAYS FESS—URGES 6 YEAR TERM

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 11.—Calling President Harding a martyr to the nation as much as any soldier who fell in battle, because he died while carrying his message to the country, Ohio's junior senator, Simon D. Fess, at a public memorial service at Music Hall, yesterday afternoon, declared in favor of congressional action to eliminate many of the burdens of the chief executive, that presidents might not be overworked.

Speaking before 5,000 persons, Senator Fess urged a six year presidential term without re-election and removal from the president's shoulders of many minor duties that come to him from the various government departments.

"The time is coming when we must do something to save the president from the weight of his responsibilities," he said. "I think we shall have to adopt the six-year idea. Eight years is far too much for any man—even the strongest."

"We must not insist that our presidents tour the country, making speeches and shaking hands with everyone."

"President Harding during his tour, made 36 addresses. It would tax the strength to prepare one, to say nothing of delivering it. With a constitution weakened by such a drain, resistance would be next to impossible."

MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD BY ROTARY

An impressive memorial service for the late President Warren G. Harding, was held by the Xenia Rotary Club, at the Elks' Lodge, Friday at noon.

The late president's favorite hymn "Lead Kindly Light," was sung at the opening by Mr. A. B. Kester. The Rev. V. F. Brown, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, delivered a memorial address, dealing with the early life of Mr. Harding. He stressed the cleanness of Mr. Harding's presidential campaign, and gave excerpts from a number of newspaper editorials commenting on the President's death.

Dr. B. R. McClellan led the Rotarians in prayer. About thirty club members attended the services.

TUT-ANKH-AMEN SUBJECT OF TALK AT BIBLE CONFERENCE

On Sunday afternoon at three o'clock Dr. George L. Robinson will speak at the King Tut-Ankh-Amen Bible Conference on King Tut-Ankh-Amen and the application to immortality. The service will be held as usual in the First M. E. Church and like all services of the Lord's Day is open to the public free of charge.

At seven o'clock Sunday evening State Secretary Freet of the Ohio Christian Endeavor Union will give his closing Vesper talk on the topic, "For Christ and the Church." At eight o'clock Dr. Robinson will give the closing address of the conference of 1923.

Saturday evening will feature the Hon. J. H. T. Gordon, a member of the Ohio General Assembly who will speak of some of the moral issues before the legislature of the Buckeye state. Mr. Freet speaks also at seven o'clock.

Friday evening was occupied by Dr. Robinson in his popular lecture on "Walks About Jerusalem." Having lived in Jerusalem for several years the speaker was amply able to give vivid descriptions of places figuring largely in the life of our Lord.

Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives were described but the main portion of the evening was spent on the walk to Emmaus. Three sites claim an interest as being possible roads Jesus took. The one the speaker inclined to is twenty-two miles from Jerusalem. This would mean a steep declivity and would involve a night walk of 22 miles to Jerusalem on the part of the two after their eyes had been opened. The Arab could do it in three hours. It means deepest interest on the part of the two to retrace their footsteps at this time of night and ascend the steep road.

It was not the custom for orientals to discuss while walking and our Master must have been caught by the very fact that these two were breaking away from the usual custom.

Several things stand out, first, the opening of the Scriptures and the burning hearts; second, the likelihood of seeing the risen Lord is far greater when people are talking about Him; third, Jesus became known to them in his prayer and people reveal themselves in their prayers.

All Xenia is cordially invited to attend every service of the conference free of charge the closing day and make it a great occasion.

Mrs. Lawrence Laybourne, of Springfield, who has been quite ill in a hospital in Ravenna, Ohio, has been removed to her home. She continues to show marked improvement.

Which would you choose? But wait—

Poverty, with a clear conscience, a free mind, a fairly happy heart, a constant hope of better times;

Or riches, with a sickening fear of you know not what, a gnawing suspicion, a growing disgust.

"A WIFE'S STORY"

BY JANE PHELPS

THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING

The proof of the pudding, they say, is in the eating. The test of a life is in the living—but many a married life could be made happier and safer if some of the tests were applied before matrimony, instead of waiting for the acid test of experience to enlighten youth.

Ruby Atkins met Paul Norwood and married him. About all she knew of him was that he had crinkly hair and fine shoulders and—was her husband.

But what she and her daughters learned of him later is told in

"A WIFE'S STORY"

Jane Phelps, the popular author of newspaper serials, tells the story of a family that knew the pain of poverty and the evils of prosperity, and finally made their choice.

This remarkable story will start in The Gazette and The Republican early in August. If you are not now a subscriber get your name on the list or you will miss one of the most interesting stories yet published by this remarkable author.

WARREN G. HARDING; APOSTLE OF HUMANITY.

From the "National Republican."—President Harding was an isolationist only in the sense that he believed in the maintenance of American institutions and American ideals. He believed in the smallest possible measure of international political involvement, but that this nation should hold up the torch of freedom and hold forth the hand of humanity to every nation needing whatever help this republic could render without the possible sacrifice of our own safety and character as a nation.

If every American could catch something of the spirit of consecrated citizenship which lifted the dead President to the heights of an exalted statesmanship, no one need fear for the future of the nation. In him glowed anew the spirit of Washington and Lincoln. Lifted above the thought of self, his prayers were breathed and his service rendered in behalf of the people he loved and who in turn loved him.

Yet most of all we think, in this hour of national bereavement, of the boundless humanity of Warren G. Harding; of his love of parents and wife and neighbors; of men and women and children; of his neighbors in Marion and of his hundred and ten million neighbors in the nation. It is all a symbol of that upon which, after all, hangs the future of the republic and of the world. Love is the greatest thing not only in the life of the individual, but in the life of the nation and of all humanity. There ought to be in the heart of every American a resolution that the generosity, the kindness, the sympathy and the friendliness which characterized Warren G. Harding shall hereafter play a larger part in the lives of all of us.

Men and women like Warren G. Harding, whether in lowly estate or in the world's greatest posts of power, do not die with the laying of their bodies in the grave. Their influence lingers, in proportion to the sphere of their influence, to sweeten and broaden life; to make it more worth the living; to spur men on to higher ideals and nobler motives. Great as was the public service of President Harding, it is not improbable that a greater service still will be rendered to Americans of the future by the enduring remembrance of his goodness, his kindness, his consecration to public service, his devotion to duty. Coming from the lowly walks of life to the highest pinnacle of power it is possible for a human being to attain, the life of this man teaches anew that "Kind hearts are more than coronets And simple faith than Norman blood."

A MAN EQUAL TO THE EMERGENCY.

The "National Republican" was not wrong in its estimate of the character and caliber of Calvin Coolidge, or the breadth and wisdom of President Harding in his attitude toward the Vice Presidency. Under President Harding the Vice President was called to the inner council chamber of the nation; he was made a real part of the executive branch of the national government. The wisdom of that policy has been again justified by events; by reason of it the new President comes to the discharge of his duties with a complete understanding of the problems of the administration and of the attitude of the dead executive toward them.

Vice President Coolidge's attitude toward his chief has been one of admirable propriety. Without ostentation or advertisement he has gone ahead in his characteristically quiet way in loyal, effective support of the national administration. As President Harding's attitude toward the Vice Presidency set a new precedent of generosity and wisdom, so Vice President Coolidge's complete identification with the administration of his President stands forth in fine contrast with the conduct of some of his predecessors.

Fortunate indeed is the nation in that a man of full presidential size was at hand to take up the heavy duties, the tremendous responsibilities of the Presidency at a time like this, when President Harding fell under the burden too heavy for one of his physical strength. Every word said and left unsaid, every act done and left undone, by the new President since the death of President Harding has deeply impressed the American people as indicative of strength of intellect and of character adequate to the great task committed to President Coolidge.

The National Republican predicts that the American people, who have had no low estimate of the capacity of Mr. Coolidge, will find in him qualities of leadership beyond their expectations. There has never before been a time in our national history when courage and decision were more urgently needed in national leadership. These qualities are the outstanding characteristics of President Coolidge—a man who thinks much, talks little and acts only upon the basis of matured judgment reached after reflection and conference.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT ITSELF NEXT WINTER?

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

The public library was burglarized last night, the work being characterized by considerable boldness. An entrance into the room was effected but only a few dollars were secured. The boys composing Company L, 4th Regiment, Ohio National Guard, of this city, are making great preparations for the annual encampment at Newark next week.

The Library Board met yesterday and opened the bids for the construction of the new Carnegie Library. Several bids had been submitted and were taken under consideration. The ladies will announce their decision in a day or two. At a meeting of the Board of Public Service yesterday Mr. Frank H. Dean, the attorney, was selected as clerk of the board.

Readers of this column have kindly contributed the following recipes for the benefit of other Readers Friends:
N. A. "Brown Cake: Cream together three-fourths of a cup of butter and one and three-fourths of a cup of sugar. Add three-fourths of a cup of buttermilk in which is dissolved one-half teaspoon of soda, the beaten yolks of three eggs, and three cups of flour mixed and sifted with one heaping teaspoon of baking powder and the following spices: one-half teaspoon of ground cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon, and one teaspoon of ground nutmeg. Stir in three tablespoons of dry cocoa, and one teaspoon of vanilla, then pour one cup of boiling water over all (after the cake has been mixed and beaten. Stir a moment, then turn the batter into a buttered loaf-cake pan and bake 40 minutes in a medium-hot oven."

Mrs. P. O.: "Oz Pie: Mix together the yolks of four eggs and two cups of granulated sugar; add one tablespoon of melted butter, one cup of either English walnut meats or pecan-nut meats, one cup of raisins, two tablespoons of vinegar, the stiffly-whipped whites of the three eggs and, last, add one teaspoon each of the ground cinnamon and cloves. Bake with eye crust and serve topped with whipped cream. This recipe makes two fillings, but you can halve it if you wish."

E. S. W.: "Quick Chocolate Dessert: Blend well in the top of a double boiler one cup of sugar, three-fourths of a cup of flour and three tablespoons of dry cocoa powder. Put the pan into the lower part of boiler (containing rapidly boiling water) and add, gradually, two cups of boiling water to this dry mixture. Stir till thick, then remove from fire and add a pinch of salt and one teaspoon of vanilla. Turn the mixture into a pudding dish and, when cold, serve with cream—either whipped or plain."

EASING THE CONSCIENCE
I've troublesome conscience, insistent and shrill,
And it frequently talks when it ought to keep still.
I should leave it at home when I wander away
To haunts where I know I'll be tempted to play.
But it follows wherever I go, at my side,
And no peace can I find until it's satisfied.

At noon says my conscience: "You ought to sit down
And write, for they're waiting for copy in town."
I vow that I will, but some golfer I know
Drops in with his clubs and says: "Come on! Let's go!"
And I say to my conscience, "This weather won't last,
And the winter is long and the summer goes fast."

Now this morning I ought to stay in and attack
The work I must do which has grown to a stack.
My conscience insists that these tasks must be done,
But the lake's like a sapphire which mirrors the sun.
So I say to my conscience: "Toile payment is wealth,
And a fishing trip now would be good for my health."

My guide is my conscience, a hard one to please,
It takes many excuses to keep it at ease—
A friend is worth keeping. All work and no play
Puts a man in the madhouse, I frequently say;
Just another day longer my tasks I will shirk,
And I promise my conscience: "Tomorrow I'll work."

Today's Talk

HEAVEN

No matter how beautifully heaven may be described to us, there shall always remain within our consciousness an eternal mystery as to where it is, and as to what it is.
Long ago I ceased to worry about heaven as some place beyond life. Rather, did I begin to realize that heaven is a place that we build for ourselves right here and now.
I think of my mother in heaven—but when I do, I think of her in my heart and in the hearts and lives of those to whom she was so dear.
If God walks around in this world—as I believe He does—then this must be His heaven, where He loves to be.

I believe that every time we do an act, or speak a word, or write a thought, we plant a seed that will in time flower and scent with great fragrance this heaven of ours.

Bring the smile to a baby's face, start the blood to warming a discouraged human being, or lend a hand that shall lead one who has become weak from stumbling, and you may be well assured that you are a regular citizen in a beautiful heaven.
I wouldn't want to go to a heaven where the streets were of gold and the people sat around "on flowery beds of ease." I would like to see great activity in the heaven that I would live in—where children would be fed decently and where every man would have his chance to perform in fit and useful manner.
Wherever I see happiness I see heaven.

Wherever love breeds, there you will find heaven—whether it be in the centre of some rude hovel or in the palace of some king. Heaven is for all.

MRS. LINDQUIST TELLS WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one thought I could ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to suffer. I had to go to bed at times to be perfectly quiet as I could not even stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor was frank enough to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to see in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun its use and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."—Mrs. MAY LINDQUIST, 2514 Independence Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

ONLY ONE ISSUE AT PRIMARY HERE ON NEXT TUESDAY

Only one change in the voting places for the city primary election next Tuesday, has been made according to Carl Ervin, clerk of the Board of Elections.

The one change in voting places is in Precinct 5, where the room in the Detroit Street side of the Dakin building is not available now. Instead voters will mark their ballots in the following places.

Precinct 1—Pratt's grocery.
Precinct 2—Mrs. Anna Comfort's home.
Precinct 3—John Dugan's home.
Precinct 4—Greene Co. Lumber Company.
Precinct 5—Dakin Bldg. Market t. side.
Precinct 6—Xenia Theological Seminary.
Precinct 7—David grocery warehouse—High Street.
Precinct 8—City Hall.
Precinct 9—Rear Regl Hotel.
Precinct 10—B. L. Hughey's garage.
Precinct 11—Basement Orient Hill School.
Precinct 12—Sld Rogers' home, E. Church Street.
Precinct 13—Henry Gales' residence E. Market Street.
Precinct 14—Fishback's store, East Main Street.

Voters are also reminded that the Election Board changed certain precinct boundary lines, the changes affecting Precincts 1, 2, 4, 5, 8 and 9. The change of lines between Precinct 1 and 2 made the new boundary run from Second and West Streets west on Second Street to the west corporation line. It will throw a number of voters from Precinct 2 into Precinct 1.

The line has been changed between Precincts 4 and 5 as follows, to throw about 150 voters from Precinct 5 into Precinct 4; from West and Branch streets east on Branch street to Galloway street, north on Galloway street to Shawnee street, east on Shawnee street to King street, north on King street to Union street, east on Union street to Detroit street.

The change between Precincts 8 and 9, which will throw some Precinct 9 voters into Precinct 8 makes East Main Street the dividing boundary from Detroit street to Leach Street instead of Market street.

Interest in the primary has been dormant. Voters will ballot to fill vacancies on the City Commission. Harry Fisher and Dr. C. G. McGPherson are candidates to succeed themselves for the long term, and S. M. McKay, present commissioner, wants to be elected for the balance of the term of former Mayor M. J. Hartley. Harry Sparks is a candidate for the long term, his candidacy injecting the element of contest.

WAGE INCREASES TO BE DEMANDED BY RAILWAY WORKERS

Cleveland, O., Aug. 10.—Wage increases which will restore the pay of conductors and trainmen to at least the level maintained before the reduction ordered by the Railway Labor Board in July 1921, will be demanded by Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen and Order of Railway Conductors in forthcoming negotiations with railway executives of the eastern section including all roads east of Chicago and north of the Ohio river, according to information here today, following adjournment last night of the joint meeting of general chairman of the two organizations.

No official announcement was made of the exact amount to be asked. President L. F. Sheppard, of the Order of Railway Conductors, stating that the organization would be embarrassed by such announcement prior to negotiations with the heads of the railways affected.

Whatever wage demands may be made by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen will be presented separately, the solidarity which has marked former wage negotiations having been broken following the abortive strike of 1921 which was called off upon orders of the railway labor board, as it was about to become effective.

SALUTE IS FIRED AT OHIO CAPITAL

Columbus, Aug. 10.—Firing of the salute at sunrise from the guns in the state house yard marked the beginning of the state capital's final tribute to the memory of late President Harding. The salute is continuing at 30 minute intervals until sunset when 43 guns will be fired—the salute to the nation.

Federal state, county and municipal offices were closed all day. Practically all business activities halted at one p. m.

Xenia Joins Nation To Pay Fitting Tribute To Late President With Services

Xenia citizens joined hands with the nation Friday afternoon to pay final, fitting and solemn tribute to the memory of Warren G. Harding, late president of the United States, whose mortal remains were being laid to rest in his home city of Marion at the hour the ceremonies were being carried out here.

While the nation mourned, and thousands of citizens gathered at Marion to pay their last respects to the dead, several hundred Xenia citizens gathered on the north lawn of the Court House to add their tribute to the occasion. A platform draped in the national colors and bearing the flag, the colors of the American Legion and of the G. A. R., formed the stage on which the ceremonies were held.

The program of the Xenia Bible Conference was transferred to the open air meeting where the schedule was changed to blend with the public memorial plans. Dr. A. W. Jamison, conference superintendent, presided at the ceremony. The Rev. W. H. Thord, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, led the Community Singers in a program including "America, the Beautiful," and a verse of "The Star Spangled Banner," to start the services.

The Rev. V. F. Brown, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, delivered the invocation and was followed by the Rev. L. L. Gray, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church at Jamestown, who gave the Scripture reading. The Bible Conference quartet, composed of Dr. J. Kelly Giffen, Dr. J. M. Beachwood, the Rev. F. L. Freet and the Rev. Lawrence Ferguson sang, followed by another quartet in which Mrs. W. H. Cherry, Mrs. John Davidson and Herman Eavey, took part, singing "Lead Kindly Light," favorite of the late President. Dr. C. P. Proudfoot, pastor of the Second United Presbyterian Church led in prayer.

A beautiful eulogy in memory of the departed executive was read by Judge C. H. Kyle, as the principal memorial address of the program. He said in part: "We are here today to join with all those who loved our departed leader and President, Warren G. Harding in honoring his memory. As the sun set beyond the Golden Gate of the west, in all its beauty and splendor, the Gates of Gold opened wide their portals and that which we loved, all that was immortal of President Harding, passed into the great world of spirits. The President had reached the highest point of fame in his life and for his name to go down unsullied upon the escutcheon of time, his passing like Lincoln, was at the psychological moment.

"When our great and eminent die they leave their outstanding qualities impressed upon the national heart and life to become thereafter a part of our national inspiration. Those qualities become permanent influence upon our national character, life and ideals.

"President Lincoln left the impression of tenderness and love. President Grant left the impression of dogged courage, a determination to fight it out if it takes all summer. President Cleveland left the impression of a stubborn and uncompromising hostility to selfishness and dishonesty in public life. President McKinley left the impression of diplomacy and kindness. President Roosevelt left the impression of the strenuous life, of fighting all the time for a square deal for all. President Harding left the impression of modesty, patience, kindness and tolerance.

"He came into the office of President in a most trying time. The pall of the war and the train of evil that ever follows in its wake hung with deepening gloom over all. Bitterness, disappointment and resentment were the harvest of the war. And the people suffering from its inevitable effects, wearied and tired of the administration which had safely piloted them through, impatient, restless, swept him into the presidency by such a ship, to be overcome, jealousy to ally, trickery to defeat and machinations to circumvent. President Harding from his life in Washington knew full well how hard the situation was and the difficulties to be met. He gathered about him men whom he trusted, some of them men of the finest abilities, and went to his task modestly, patiently, kindly and tolerantly. He tried his best to do his best.

Judge Kyle then pointed out among the difficulties that faced the executive, the unemployment situation, and referred to the late President's conference to alleviate that situation and called to mind the executive's achievement in a conference of the nations to accomplish disarmament and his later untiring efforts in behalf of the World Court.

"Economy is a simple, homely virtue, and the president saw that no reform was more sadly needed in Washington," he continued. "And by his constant and effective pressure against extravagance and waste there was established a budget system in the federal branches of the government that has resulted in great good. The national finances have been reformed and today America is not only living within her income but is paying off her war debts at the rate of hundreds of millions a year."

"Whatever he accomplished in public life was with tolerance—not abuse; justice and not oppression; sound business methods and not political pressure. His work involved many sacrifices but it was undertaken and successfully completed through the quiet energy, the convincing logic and the confidence of others he held by reason of his honesty, virtue and integrity.

"As time elapses and the effects of his outstanding public service begin to be observed by eyes not clouded by passion and prejudice, his accomplishments and achievement will be more appreciated.

"He rose from the humblest walks of life to the place of highest honor. There were no doubt disappointments in his life, but they did not mar the beauty of his living or blacken the charm of his life. In every station in life he measured up to the best that is in manhood. He stood for the noblest ideals that man can hope to reach.

"Finally President Harding had an abiding faith in God. He was a faithful member of his church and did not hesitate to declare his reliance and trust in God and his revealed word.

"For our beloved and honored President's life's play has ended and the curtain has fallen. His life, his acts and deeds are a part of the eternal and unchanging past.

"But he has left us a legacy of the simple virtues, whose practice brings so infinitely much pleasure and happiness to our lives. They might be called: diligent service to the public; loyalty to your friends; devotion to your family and faithfulness to your church and Lord.

"He served his day and generation according to the will of God and fell asleep, while his soul and spirit have gone to join that innumerable company of our beloved dead in the presence of our adorable Lord and Saviour, there to wait until the coming of the Bright and Morning Star, the effulgence of whose rays will pierce the gloom and darkness of the night of death and be the precursor of the coming eternal day that will know no night.

"Let us cherish and honor his memory and emulate his noble example."

Dr. George L. Robinson, of Chicago, who was scheduled for an address on the Conference program, was the next speaker. He paid a brief but beautiful tribute to the memory of the late President. Dr. R. A. Truett, of Pittsburgh, another Conference speaker, characterized the day as "a day of American grief, confidence and redemption and pictured the late President as a martyr to his country as surely as those who met death in the battle, for 'his life was offered for salvation and the future of his country.' In closing, he said, 'We should re-dedicate ourselves to the cause for which Warren G. Harding died.'

The singing of the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee," and the benediction offered by the Rev. A. J. Furstenberger, pastor of the Friends Church, closed the memorial program.

WAVE OF STRIKES HITS BERLIN AS MONEY DEMANDED

Berlin, Aug. 11.—A wave of strikes has broken over Berlin. With the slogan, "No Money, No Work," perhaps 250,000 workmen inaugurated a home brand of passive resistance in factories and workshops, or laid down their work altogether and marched out.

Two causes are held directly responsible for the strike epidemic. They are money famine and the slowness with which wages are being adjusted to meet the depreciation of the mark in the past few days.

The employees of the so-called "money press" walked out to enforce their demand for a living wage.

With the entire country already in distress and chaos because of the government's inability to turn out money fast enough, the news of the money printers' strike spread new gloom that traveled quickly. The supply of paper money available already is too limited to allow for the making up of payrolls, daily purchases by citizens and the transaction of business in general.

As soon as the news of the money printers' strike had spread through the great industrial centers near Berlin 30,000 employees of the General Electric company struck and marched out of the works. At the Siemens-Schuckert plant another 30,000 remained in the factory, but refused to do any work. At the reichstag deputations of workmen endeavored to enter the galleries to make a demonstration, but were driven back by the police.

With all money exhausted the reichsbank and all other banks in Berlin have closed their doors. Hundreds of people besieged the banks in vain efforts to get money.

Later the employees of the money press resumed their work after Chancellor Cuno personally had intervened and the government had complied in large part to the demands of the printers.

DAYTON SEEKING TO RETAIN BEN PIERS

Plans to retain Ben Piers, former Xenian, as head of the Dayton Recreational Department were discussed at a meeting of officials of the Dayton Bureau of Community Service and the Dayton Playground and Garden Association Friday.

Piers resigned recently because of insufficient salary. He has been head of the department three years announcing his resignation to take effect the latter part of September. Members of the organizations interested expressed themselves Friday as willing to increase the salary to keep Piers in Dayton.

H. D. Wehrly, executive secretary of the Bureau of Community Service said "Dayton recreation activities under the direction of Mr. Piers have been improved to such an extent that it would mean the loss of years experience to allow Mr. Piers to leave the position."

Piers said nothing regarding the possibility of staying in Dayton. "I have made all my plans to leave at the end of the summer playground season although developments might arise that would result in my remaining in Dayton," he said.

STREETCAR STRIKE LOOMS.

Lima, O., Aug. 11.—Suspension of streetcar service tonight is practically certain, it became known when officials of the Lima City Street railway and the local union broke off negotiations. Point of difference between the company and the men is in regard to the renewal of a working agreement, which expired during the war period and was not renewed then because of the financial condition of the railway.

AMERICA TO MEET ENGLAND ON COURT FFOR TENNIS HONOR

New York, August 11.—America will meet England, with the old familiar tug at the heart strings that all international meetings engender on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club, at Forest Hills, L. I., this afternoon. It will be the premiere of a series between the women players of two great nations.

America will be represented by Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, perennial champion of the nation; Miss Helen Willis, 11, but gifted; Miss Eleanor Goss, and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman. The case for England will be offered by Miss Kitty McKane, Miss Geraldine Beamish, Mrs. R. C. Clayton and Mrs. B. C. Covell. Miss McKane is ranked, unofficially as runner up to Suzanne Lenglen of the temperament on European courts.

Miss Beamish is a veteran campaigner with several victories over Mrs. Mallory and Mrs. Clayton also has scored over the American. Formal dedication of the New West Side stadium, the first known to American tennis, will precede the matches, which are scheduled to start at 2:30.

To Miss Willis will go the distinction of being the first American to hit a tennis ball in competition in the stadium. She will face Miss McKane in the opening singles.

In the remaining matches, Mrs. Mallory will play Mrs. Clayton in singles and the doubles combination of Mrs. Wightman and Mrs. Goss is named against the British team of Miss McKane and Mrs. Covell. By all accounts the latter should win. They have played together often while no two members of the American squad have ever teamed up in competition.

Mrs. Mallory is the American hope. She retrieved a rather indifferent showing abroad, when she scored successively over Miss McKane and Mrs. Clayton at Seabright, and it is figured that she may be able to repeat in the present event.

The British, however, were just off the gangplank when they played at Seabright and were hardly up to their best. It is believed that they have become acclimated in the meantime.

As matters stand a defeat in the doubles, said to be almost inevitable, would force the Americans to win four of the five singles matches to score a victory as a team.

YELLOW SPRINGS TO START SERIES WITH BAYLIFES SUNDAY

In what should prove to be a good baseball game the Bayliffs will tackle the Yellow Springs Athletics Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

Both clubs are now recognized as two of the strongest in this part of Ohio and a win by either club is of much importance.

The club representing Yellow Springs this year is said to be one of the strongest in its history. So far this season they have taken the scalps of the Fairborn nine three times, and have defeated Harshmanville, once. The Athletics were beaten by the North Dayton Merchants. The Athletics have a bunch of clouters in Bales, Day, Little and Hackett and these lads are liable to break up a game at most any time.

The calibre of the Bayliffs is well established and the fans are well satisfied that the team that beats them must step lively. The Bayliffs have a bunch of dangerous batsmen and are liable to go on a batting rampage at any time. The Bayliff batsmen have been hitting in the pinches here of late and this is just what it takes in order to win a game. The defense of the locals is perfect.

Teleavon will pitch for the Athletics. The Bayliffs with Free on the mound and Bob Herman in reserve expect to give their followers a good run for their money. The game will start at 3 o'clock with Norris in charge.

FIRPO IS TAKEN SERIOUSLY; JACK DEMPSEY TRAINS

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Jack Dempsey does not underestimate Luis Firpo's fighting ability.

"I don't see how anyone can say Firpo is a poor fighter when few people have seen him off his feet," Dempsey said. "He has met some pretty good hitters, and they haven't been able to put him down. I've watched Firpo's fights very closely since he came to America the last time, and I notice he always is home in front. A man who is not game may win some of the fights, but he isn't going to win all his fights, and if Firpo wasn't dead game, it would have come out before this. Firpo is the biggest and strongest man I've met since I fought Willard. I'll be giving height and reach and poundage to him. He has been fighting regularly and has scored 11 knockouts in a dozen fights. Wouldn't I be foolish to underestimate such a man?"

RESERVES THROW GAUNTLET DOWN TO OTHER CITY TEACMS

The Xenia Reserves will play a double header Sunday afternoon at Reserve Park, Cincinnati Avenue. The first game will be with the fast Bowersville nine and will start at 7:45 o'clock. The second game will bring together the Reserves and the Dayton Independents. This game will be over about the same time that the regular Sunday afternoon games are finished.

The first game will be a thriller as the Bowersville bunch has a nifty nine and has taken the measure of everything around here. Manager Fowlermeister, in order to cop this game will start his star twirler, Dick Wells, who pitched for the Binders in the city league. Wells is young but has plenty of stuff and he will give the Reserves a merry time of it.

The second contest with the Independents should be an interesting affair. The Dayton bunch has just organized and so far has been playing superb ball.

The Reserves after having dropped a game to the sturdy Waynesville nine will attempt to make a comeback and take both games. Manager Chambliss has secured a few new players. Weaver will probably pitch and Ciphers and McPherson who may work the first contest. Both of these hurlers are good and will make things hot for the Bowersville bunch. Daidman, who played first for the Student-takers are been signed by the Reserves for the rest of the season.

The Reserves will lineup as follows: Daidman or DeAtley at first, E. Leahy at second, Milburn at short, Ciphers at third, Shaw or M. Leahy in left field, Johnson in center, Holland or Botoroff in right, Wilson or Green will catch.

Bowersville will present the following lineup: Spear at first, Herold Spear at second, N. Murrell at short, Briggs at third, Bowermaster, Shaw and Glass in the field, D. Murrell will catch while Wells will pitch. The admission will be 35 cents to all. There will be a prize given away with every hundred tickets sold. L. Rachford will umpire both games.

RESERVES TO OFFER FAS TWO GAMES FOR SUDAY AFTERNOON

The Reserve Baseball Club, claiming it has played first class ball all season, now claims the right to challenge the Xenia Bayliffs and the Xenia Red Sox for the city championship.

The Reserves will play each of these teams a series of two out of three games, with a 60 per cent win and 40 per cent lose, or regular 50-50 split on the gate receipts. The Reserves further offer to play the first game on their opponents' diamond, the second to be played at Reserve Park and the third by agreement.

The Reserves claim they answered a challenge of the Bayliffs some time ago, but received no answer. If the Bayliffs and Red Sox do not answer through the columns of this paper within one week saying they will play, the Reserves will claim the championship of the city and the management will book games ahead with out of town teams for the balance of the season.

If either team wants to take up the challenge it should answer through this paper and be ready to sign a contract within a week.

DEPOSED MANAGER OF BROWNS WILL PILOT RED SOX

New York, August 11.—According to a report today, Lee Fohl, deposed as manager of the St. Louis Browns, will be appointed leader of the Boston Red Sox at the end of the present season, replacing Frank Chance. The latter, it is declared, is to take charge of another American League Club, identity not disclosed.

In addition, it is reported that Ty Cobb will retire at the end of the season as manager of the Detroit Tigers to become club owner. His successor will be Bill Donovan who once managed the Yankees and Phillies. Donovan is at present in charge of the New Haven Club of the Eastern league.

JAMESTOWN MAN SWEARS OUT WARRANT

A man giving his name as John Paden, was arrested at Jeffersonville Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Wolfe of Fayette County. He is alleged to have fled from John Perry, Jamestown, secretary of the Jamestown lodge of Masons, out of $10.

Paden is alleged to have presented a Masonic receipt from a Kansas City Lodge, believed to have been falsely obtained, and told Perry his wife had lost her pocketbook, containing all their money. He asked for $10 which he promised to return and it was readily given.

After Paden had left Perry remembered he had received a circular warning against a man using similar operations to defraud Masons and asked help from Fayette County authorities. Paden was arrested with his wife in a Jeffersonville hotel.

TOBACCO GROWERS OF MIAMI VALLEY TO BE PRESENTED WITH CO-OP PLANS

Miami Valley tobacco growers are to be presented with the plans of the Miami Valley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, at a series of six meetings, beginning Monday, Aug. 6, throughout the valley.

The only township in Greene County effected by the tobacco growers' organization is Sugarcreek township where most of the growers are located. Only a few growers are scattered over the remainder of the county. A meeting will be called at Bellbrook soon, to take the matter of organization up according to Ford S. Prince, County Farm Bureau Agent.

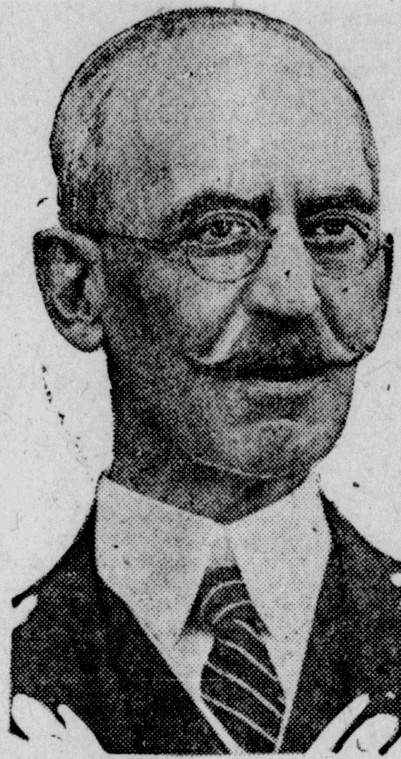

The first of the meetings scheduled for the Miami Valley district, was held last Monday at Dayton, at the Y. M. C. A. Building, at seven o'clock in the evening. Another meeting was held Tuesday, at Eaton, Wednesday a meeting will be held at Middletown. The Thursday meeting is scheduled for Franklin, with the final meeting at Greenville, Friday.

Each of the meetings will be addressed by Charles E. Marvin, a central Kentucky farmer, who is one of the leaders in the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association. David Bill in charge of the tobacco field service.

Gen. Crowder is Recalled to Discuss Cuba

Gen. E. H. Crowder.

Major-General Enoch H. Crowder, who managed the draft in the World War and who is now American Ambassador to Cuba, has been recalled to Washington for conferences with officials of the State Department. The action of the Cuban Congress in passing the State Lottery bill over the protests of America and over the Cuban President's veto, adding to it a gratuitous note that it was none of America's business and condemning American "interference," is believed to be the topic that will be discussed.

THE MISFIT

By Jane Phelps

MRS. CRANDELL ARRIVES Chapter LXX

The day the steamer was to arrive Natalie filled Mrs. Crandell's rooms with flowers, also taking especial pains with those for the table. She spoke to the cook about the dinner, but was told that the cook knew just what Mrs. Crandell liked after a journey and had made her preparations accordingly.

Rebuffed Natalie wandered about the rooms until she could endure the strain no longer. The boat was very late, would not dock until afternoon, so Horace had telephoned her, and so she dressed for the street and went to all on Beverly Road. Beverly had often been to the house, had admired what Natalie had done to her rooms; had sympathized that she was not allowed to do more for Mrs. Crandell. It was but natural she should go to her. Horace would meet his mother, come up with her.

Beverly insisted she stay to luncheon. But Natalie left soon after, saying:

"I don't suppose she will care, but I want to be there when Mrs. Crandell arrives."

Unfortunately, Horace had been mistaken in the time the boat would dock, and when he called to correct his mistake, Natalie had gone out. When she entered the hall she found it piled high with luggage and heard Horace and his mother talking animatedly in Mrs. Crandell's rooms. She hurried to them.

"Oh, I am so sorry to be out when you came!" she exclaimed, holding out her hand to Mrs. Crandell, but it was Horace's fault. He telephoned me the steamer would not dock for an hour yet."

"Horace told you what the steamship office informed him," his mother answered. But she took Natalie's hand.

"Welcome home," Natalie forced herself to say. She felt chilled, yet she expected nothing more. She would not have dared to offer a kiss.

"Yes, it is good to be here," Mrs. Crandell said. "Very good."

Natalie noticed with a little wave of contentment that she looked old, very weary.

"You are very tired with your journey. Is there anything I can do to help you?" her voice was gentle.

"No, thank you. The servants will attend to everything."

For a few moments Natalie stood awkwardly by, then quietly slipped from the room.

In her own rooms she pressed her hands over her hot eyes. She was of no use here, was not wanted. She longed to weep, but Horace would be sure to notice and ask the cause.

"I shall always be a 'misfit' here," always the cabbage that no amount of grafting can make into a rose," she muttered. Then she threw up her head and added: "I will bear it Horace's sake," just as he called blithely:

"Sitting all alone, Natalie? Mother is going to lie down until dinner time. She looks very tired, don't you think? He evidently had no idea things had gone wrong with Natalie, no slightest suspicion that she was hurt."

"Yes, she does look tired. But after she has been at home a few days she will feel better."

"It was almost pitiful to see how glad she was to be back," Horace went on. "I believe she would have died had she remained away much longer. Now that we are all together again I hope she will be her dear old self, yet I feel uneasy about her. She has grown old too fast. She was always so self-sufficient; now she seems to lean on me; I noticed the change at once." Horace sighed heavily.

"Don't feel badly, Horace. She will pick up soon," Natalie encouraged, as warmly as she could.

"God grant it," he said. "I can't help feeling we should have insisted upon an early reply and had her spend the summer with us. It would have been wonderful to have had her."

To this Natalie made no reply, but involuntarily she shivered. It seemed almost profanation to talk of having her mother-in-law share their marvelous summer—the summer whose memories were to give her strength to do what she knew to be her duty.

FEAR LIVES LOST IN MOTOR BOAT FIRE

FIRE ENVELOPES CRAFT AT NIGHT: SCREAMS HEARD

Police Boats Seek Charred Hull of Launch Thought Burned
OFF SANDY HOOK
Attempt Made to Reach Ship Unavailing—
Check is Made

New York, Aug. 11.—Police and fire boats today combed the waters of the lower bay and the ocean off Sandy Hook in search of the charred hull of a motor launch in which, it was feared, a number of lives were lost at midnight. Persons on Coney Island's sands saw the flaming ship about two miles off shore.

"It looked like a large motor launch," Charles Gerhelm, a Coney Island patrolman, said today. "Flames enveloped the entire craft. The cries of men for help, and the shrill scream of a woman could be plainly heard."

Gerhelm with Herbert VonBergen, a life guard, set out in a rowboat, the only craft at hand, in an effort to reach the burning ship.

The tide, however, forced them back and a call was sent for the fireboat Gaynor.

Police boats were rushed from the Battery but could not find the vessel.

"The last we saw of it, the flames had reached the waterline and the launch apparently was drifting toward Sandy Hook," Gerhelm said. "The cries had been stilled," the policeman added.

Authorities believe a pleasure party, out for the holiday yesterday was returning aboard the launch. A check was being made of craft in the bays near Coney Island today in an effort to identify the vessel.

Earlier last night police went to the rescue of the launch Edith K. said to be owned by J. K. Birch and his son, Howard, of Brooklyn. The Birch's boat, which at the time carried two other men, had developed motor trouble and was being tossed about by the sea.

Birch, however, told police he did not need assistance.

The burning boat, sighted two hours after this was in almost the same location as Birch's boat had been, the police said.

BRITISH NOTE IS SENT TO ALLIES CHALLENGES FRENCH

London, Aug. 11.—The foreign office is expected to forward a note to Paris this evening expressing Great Britain's disapproval of the French Ruhr policy. It is understood the communication will reject the French proposal in regard to debt cancellation.

According to authoritative sources, the note will maintain Great Britain cannot make any further concessions to France unless the French are willing to take a more reasonable view of the reparations crisis.

The note is said to be friendly in tone, but emphatic in wording.

London, Aug. 11.—Premier Baldwin and Lord Curzon, foreign minister, have prepared a note to France and Belgium, which were handed to their ambassadors today, in which Britain for the first time openly officially protests against the occupation of the Ruhr as a violation of the treaty of Versailles.

Britain states firmly that paragraph 18, upon which France justifies the peace time war waged against Germany, does not authorize military action by the French and can not be invoked to justify the sanctions imposed upon a beaten nation.

The note also insists that no one or two of Germany's creditors are entitled to depreciate her common credits by individual action, as it is obvious that the more France and Belgium depreciate Germany's capacity for payment by military methods, the higher will be the percentage required from the allies to meet Britain's debt to America. The note, it is declared, makes it plain that Britain under no circumstances will accept a proposal that Germany should the debts of the allies to Britain and the United States.

This firm stand is said to be really due to the program adopted at a recent dinner of former coalitionists at the home of Lord Birkenhead, at which it was decided to insist that Britain must challenge the legality of the Franco-Belgian occupation of the Ruhr, and that there must be a readjustment of reparations along the lines of Bonar Law's proposals of last January. The text of the note will be published Monday.

WILL ONE OF THESE BE NEXT G. O. P. NOMINEE?

By virtue of his office President Calvin Coolidge becomes a likely candidate for the Republican nomination in 1924, which politicians agree would have been given to President

Harding if he had lived. It is likely that Senator Hiram Johnson, of California; Senator Robert M. La Follette, Governor Frank O. Lowden, of Illinois; Secretary of State Charles Evans

Hughes, Governor General Leonard Wood, of the Philippines, and Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover will all be boomed by their followers for the honor of leading the party in the 1924 campaign.

Coolidge Will Take Immediate Steps To Prevent Threatened Coal Strike

President Determined That There Shall Be No Shortage of Fuel During Coming Winter—Prepared to Wield "Big Stick" If Necessary to Eliminate Danger Of General Tie-Up.

Washington, Aug. 11.—President Coolidge will "act formally" to prevent a cessation of work in the anthracite coal fields, it was learned today.

The President is determined there shall be no shortage of fuel during the winter, with its attendant hardships and sufferings to the people, it was declared by his closest advisers. He is prepared to wield the proverbial "big stick" in forcing a settlement of differences between anthracite operators and miners.

The President has passed this ultimatum along to government officials in close touch with the situation.

Above all, he has told them there shall be no strike September 1, as was threatened when recent wages negotiations were stopped by operators and miners.

The anthracite problems is one of the new administration's most critical and immediate concerns. Mr. Coolidge has realized it too, for he has told his advisers that the way must be found to prevent a strike and to insure continuous production of fuel.

The President has been told that the real crisis will not be reached until next week, but after that time the hard coal output would be jeopardized by further disagreement between operators and miners.

A voluntary settlement seems remote. Neither side has shown any disposition to yield an inch. The conference broke over establishment of the check off system and both contending factions have remained adamant.

President Coolidge first leaped into national prominence by his forceful handling of the Boston police strike. An almost coincidental situation may give him his first great opportunity as leader of the nation. Those close to the President said today he was going to dig into the anthracite problem with the same determination and unswerving resoluteness that marked the quelling of the Boston strike.

Three immediate plans are known to be under consideration for effecting a settlement:

1.—Intervention of Secretary of Labor Davis, who returns to this country Monday and the coal commission to act as mediators between the contending forces.

2.—Summoning of operators and miners to the White House for a round table discussion.

3.—Use of a threat of government seizure of the mines.

A decision may be expected shortly, possibly early next week, as the situation becomes more critical. Labor officials have been in constant touch with all negotiations and it seemed certain today that Davis would step in in the role of peacemaker.

If Davis' efforts are futile, President Coolidge himself plans to summon both factions and tell them point-blank that the country never will stand for a strike, that disputes must be reconciled and a steady supply of hard coal be taken from the mines for the approaching winter months. He will inform the disputants the distressing situation of last year in the bituminous field, cannot be tolerated in the anthracite mines. Seizure would be the last resort. It would not be as effective in the long run as the other plans but the threat, at least, when all else has failed, would line up public sentiment behind the administration's "no strike" edict, in the belief of observers here. It is not believed either side would care to bring down deliberately the country's wrath.

Seizure might not insure the essential continuous output. Anthracite miners in Pennsylvania are required to serve a two year apprenticeship.

Coal mining is a specialized trade and the ordinary laborer cannot be shoved into the mines, officials pointed out.

If this emergency were resorted to, the government to get a steady supply would be compelled to accede to the miners' demands in getting them to return to work, it was pointed out. It is believed operators would hesitate to have mines seized and welcome an agreement with their workers.

PATROLMAN KILLED

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 11.—Patrolman Lawrence M. Klump, 35, was killed early today when climbing a flight of stairs to the second floor of a building at 706 West Fifth street. He was shot while chasing a Negro, it is said, when the black turned and fired the fatal bullet.

MANY THOUSANDS LEAVE MARION DESERTED AFTER FUNERAL SERVICES

Worn and Bedraggled Ohio City Left to Its Own Sorrow as Visitors Pay Last Tribute to Dead President and Depart.

AGED FATHER SILENTLY MOURNS FOR SON

Guard of Soldiers Maintains Guard About Tomb of Warren G. Harding—City Yesterday Shrine Of Nation's Homage.

Marion, O., Aug. 11.—The littered streets seem deserted, the last guest has gone, and Marion today was a tired and worn, bedraggled little Ohio city—the town that yesterday was the shrine of a nation's homage to a beloved dead president.

The few remaining whiffs of a crepe sodden and limp in deflection along the route that led to Marion's beautiful little cemetery, where today a federal guard, twenty-five men and one officer from Companies K and M, Fort Hayes, Columbus, stand silent vigil over the entombed remains of their dead commander. They will maintain their guard before the ivy-covered portals for six months.

Marion's day of glory is done. Thrust into the limelight of the country's vision three years ago by the election of her distinguished son to the highest office a great and free people can give, with him she rose to the heights. Now he is gone, and Marion's fame in the years to come will be as "Harding's home town."

"No plans for a memorial mausoleum for the late president have been completed," Hoke Donithen, president of the Marion Civic Association, declared today. "There will be one sometime, somewhere near Marion, of course. The friends of the dead president from all over the country desire it as well as his neighbors and fellow townsmen here. It is entirely fitting and proper. But Mrs. Harding must be consulted and in this as every other way, her wishes shall govern."

Mr. Donithen emphatically denied the report that a drive was to be started next week to raise $3,000,000 as a fund for the memorial.

The American people to whom he endured himself will see to it that a shrine befitting the eminence of the beloved dead president will be built, Mr. Donithen said.

Out East Center street, in an unpretentious frame house the blinds are drawn and within sits a pathetic old man, broken in spirit and body, surrounded by memories in a room still heavy with the fragrance of the blossoms that spoke the tribute of a sorrowful multitude. Sunk in misery, the evening of life stretches ahead in blackness, without the comforting light that seemed his rightful heritage, the companionship of a cherished son.

The way of sorrow, the last step of the long trail that leads to the tomb where Warren G. Harding, citizen of Marion, rests in peace, is a dusty two miles of desolation. Along the sidewalks the grass is worn away to the earth beneath. The leaves of the trees hang heavy with their burden of fine grey soil. At the burial grounds, a squad of men today was clearing away the mass of strown paper, trampled grass and bits of rubbish that crowd, even a reverential and sorrowful mass of humanity as was yesterday leave in its wake.

And Marion today, a desolate city, took up the burden of daily routine, with a groping sense of empty loss that not even time itself, to the present generation, may entirely assuage.

Dr. George T. Harding, Sr., the aged father of the dead president, "his feeling very bright" today, after his last night, Mrs. E. B. Remsburg, the late president's sister, said.

Time, the eternal comforter, was here with healing balm for sore-racked hearts and Marion "carried on."

TWO DEAD AND SEVEN ALLEGED MOONSHINE RS ARE IN JAIL

Feud Outbreak In Kentucky Leads to Trouble—Telephone System Destroyed by Band of Whiskey Makers.

Hazard, Ky., Aug. 11.—Two men are dead and seven alleged moonshiners are in jail here today, as the result of a feud outbreak, sweeping this section of Kentucky's mountains.

An organized band of moonshiners in Berry County, has destroyed the meagre telephone system of that remote district and the only information available here is that brought in by messengers.

Dinnie Williams killed Hiram Middleton in a quarrel at Kilday, Harlan County, late yesterday, officers learned. They arrested Williams and were enroute to the county jail on a train crowded with miners returning from work when friends of Middleton fired into the train, killing Williams instantly. Arrests in connection with this crime are expected today.

The seven prisoners taken were brought in by the sheriff's posse that went to the rescue of a small squad of dry raiders, headed by R. L. Stewart, state prohibition agent, who were besieged on Lost Creek. The dry agents seem to have scattered into adjoining counties and rumors vary as to their whereabouts today.

Mrs. U. H. Johnson.

Pretty Mrs. Ursula Hooper Johnson, San Francisco society woman, was given a divorce from Major C. Chouteau Johnson, war hero, of the Lafayette Escadrille composed of American aviators serving in the French army, because he drank too much, according to the story, she told in court. He is a member of a prominent New York family. She was awarded the custody of their baby daughter, all of their household furniture and $200 a month alimony.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Cleveland, Aug. 10.—Whitely Love, 28, was killed, and Jessie Horne is believed dying as the result of a quarrel with James Miller, according to police. Miller was charged with murder.

NEW PRESIDENT BEGINS DUTIES IN WASHINGTON

Plunges Into Mass of Political and Executive Business

CHRISTIAN RESIGNS

Edward T. Clark Slated To Occupy Post of Private Secretary

Washington, Aug. 11.—The first cabinet meeting of the Coolidge administration will be held next Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock and was announced officially this afternoon at the temporary "White House."

President Coolidge issued the call informally after a series of conferences in which eight cabinet members visited him at his presidential suite in the Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Secretary of Labor Davis who are abroad.

It was also announced the president will decide on Monday whether he will meet Washington correspondents after the cabinet meeting.

Washington, Aug. 11.—President Coolidge returned to the capital today to plunge directly into a mass of political and executive business. The presidential special, which brought the chief executive back from attendance at the Harding funeral of the late President Marion, reached Washington at 7:55 a. m., after a record run from the Ohio town. The president went immediately to his temporary "White House" in the Willard Hotel.

The president arose early today "eager to get back to work."

While the presidential special was racing along through West Virginia, the new executive ordered the train's speed increased so he might reach Washington earlier than at first intended.

The sudden resignation of George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to the president, was the chief topic of conversation aboard the train. Christian made his announcement before President Coolidge left Marion.

When word was sent to the executive, the following statement was issued in behalf of him:

"The president regrets to hear the report that Mr. Christian has resigned. He has not yet seen the resignation and therefore has no statement to make."

It is confidently expected the president will immediately appoint Edward T. Clark, his personal secretary, to the vacancy. Clark is one of the most popular men in the capital and was associated with the president while he occupied the vice presidency.

ALLEGED FORGER SENT TO PRISON

Roy Brown, Cedarville, indicted for forgery by the Grand Jury last Monday, was sentenced to one year in the state penitentiary in Common Pleas Court Saturday morning.

Brown was arraigned and entered a plea of guilty. He was represented in court by Attorney R. L. Johnson, appointed by the court. Mrs. Emma Johnson, of Spring Valley, was arraigned on a charge of issuing checks, without funds, but her case was continued until Monday morning, pending further investigation. She is being represented by Attorney Harry D. Smith.

WILL INCREASE FACULTY.

Delaware, O., Aug. 11.—Increased work in astronomy and mathematics to be offered at Ohio Wesleyan university here, following installation of the school's new telescope, will necessitate addition of two new faculty members in the mathematics department, it has been announced. D. L. Holl, a graduate of Manchester college, Indiana, and Ohio State, will become assistant professor of mathematics and another full time professor will be added to the department.

WOMAN ATTACKED BY ROBBERS.

Norwalk, O., Aug. 11.—Mrs. Theodore J. Adelman was found unconscious, gagged and tied to her kitchen range here. The house had been ransacked by robbers. A diamond ring, a $5 gold piece and other property were missing.

NEW PRESIDENT IN WASHINGTON AFTER ATTENDING FUNERAL

Washington, Aug. 11.—Further evidence piled up on top of Senator Moses' launching of a Coolidge boom for the presidential nomination, indicating that the new president, whom it was said leaned strongly to the world court, has satisfied Republican leaders as to his position on the question.

Some of the senators and other politicians who had talked to him on the train from Marion, O., came out of his private car with a distinct impression that he intends to make his attitude clear on this vital issue at an early date. One senator went so far to say that he got a plain hint of the president's plan. He declined to divulge the nature of the hint, but plainly indicated in his manner that he was well pleased.

It was indicated in those quarters that Mr. Coolidge, while careful not to repudiate President Harding's stand, will find a way to "soft pedal" the court matter. Among all party managers who have had an opportunity to confer with him there is the belief that he is such a loyal party man that he will not ignore advice from the inner councils to espouse a cause that may endanger party harmony. For example, one Republican senator said President Coolidge will find himself so burdened with vital domestic problems that he will not have the time to devote to a campaign for the world court. The idea then is that he could get around the embarrassing feature involved in having to adopt or repudiate President Harding's position by merely saying in his message to congress that the court protocol is before the senate with the president's recommendation and nothing he could say would add to the situation. That would leave the foreign relations committee, which is overwhelmingly against the court, free to bury it in a pigeonhole.

This and other problems will come up at the Tuesday's cabinet meeting. The call for the first gathering of the official family under the new chief will go out Monday.

U. S. CONGRESSMAN VISIT IN MOSCOW

Moscow, Aug. 11.—After a week spent in Moscow in intensive investigation working 16 hours a day and rushing constantly from one appointment to another, the unofficial commission left for a 30-day trip to the Russian interior, Siberia and the Ukraine. The commission, headed by Senators King and Ladd and Congressman Frear, made inquiries while here into foreign relations, trade, banking finances, education, agriculture, co-operative organization and political questions. They also met most of the soviet leaders. While reserving their opinions, it may be stated that the commission is surprised at the evidences of trade revival here—at the great animation in Moscow, the economic life and the government activities.

CANOE PARTY IS IN CINCINNATI

Leaving Trebeins in a canoe Monday morning, a party of Xenia people arrived in Cincinnati at noon Friday, according to a card received Saturday from Robert H. Kingsbury, one of the party.

The party camped along the way, going by way of the Little Miami and Ohio rivers. Good weather marked the trip. The party consists of Mr. Kingsbury, Richard Sayre, Harry Eavey, Max Marshall and Edward Sayre of this city and Leon Stinnard, of Madison, Ind., former Xenian.

ORDER CHANGED

Marion, O., Aug. 11.—President Coolidge took quick action to countermand the order issued by Lieutenant Colonel Sherrill, "detaching" Major O. D. Baldinger from the position of military aide at the white house, to which he was assigned by President Harding. The president caused an order to be issued wherein it was stated that both he and Mrs. Coolidge are extremely fond of Major Baldinger and especially desire him to remain on duty as white house aide. It is understood President Coolidge was extremely displeased over the summary removal of Major Baldinger.

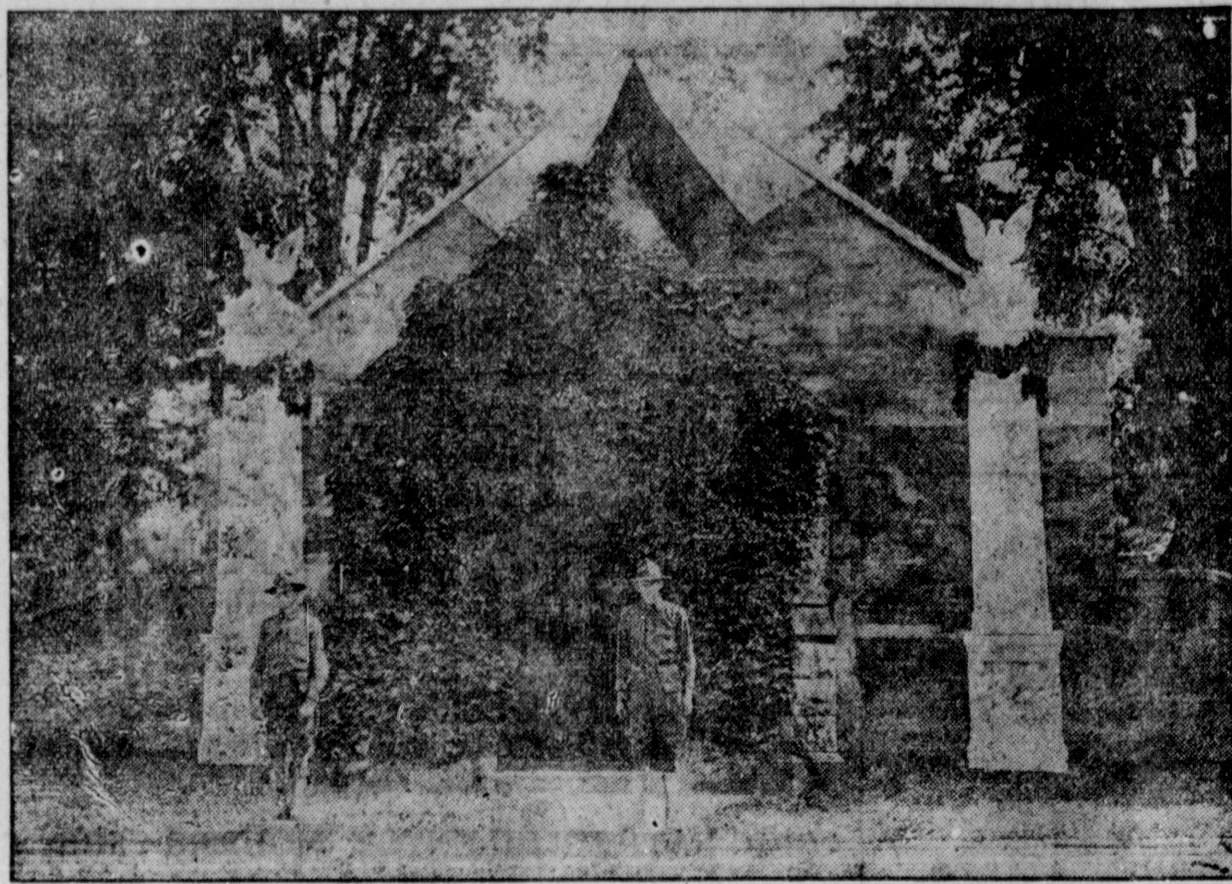

HENRY FORD'S CHANCES.

London, Aug. 11.—Here is a new way to figure just what chance Henry Ford has to be elected. According to the London Times, London underwriters have had a definite offer from the United States to pay $30,000 if the underwriters will undertake to pay $500,000 in the event of Mr. Ford's election in November, 1924. The underwriters are making an inquiry, as they think the premium offered is too low.

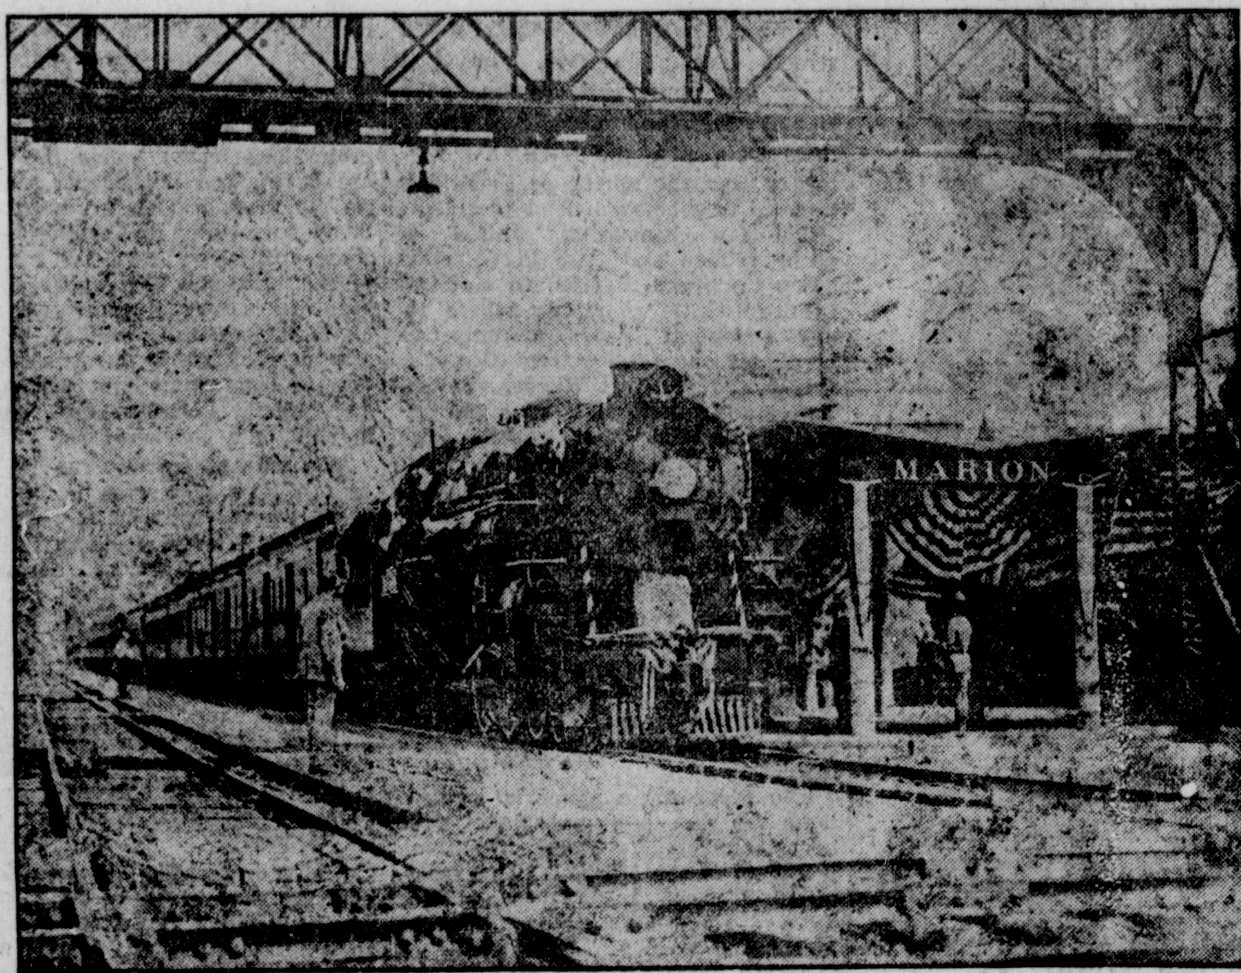

WRITER PASSES AWAY.

Youngstown, O., Aug. 11.—A single bouquet of exquisite gladioli on the hattered old desk he had used for 27 years, marked the death of George McGuigan, 67, who conducted a column widely known as "The Evening Olio" in the Youngstown Vindicator.

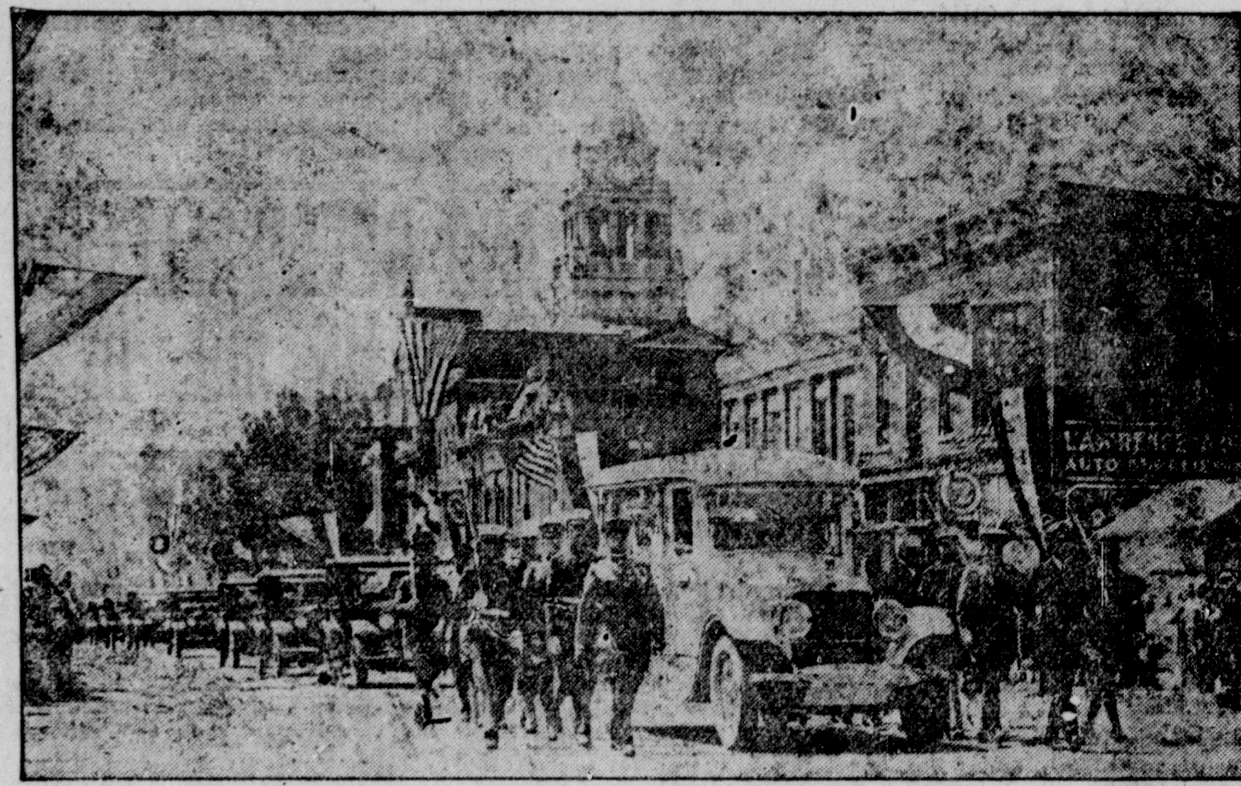

MARION MOURNS AS DISTINGUISHED SON IS BURIED

Beautiful Vine Covered Mausoleum in Marion Cemetery, Where the Body of Late President Harding is at Rest Until a Permanent Site For Suitable Monument is Selected.

Special train from Washington reaches Marion, ending the long journey across the continent.

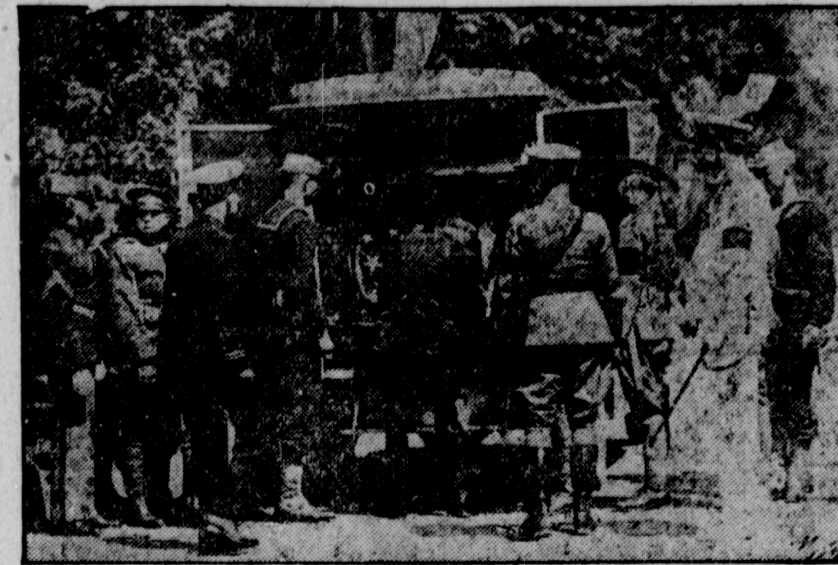

En Route From Station to the House of Dr. Harding, Where the Body Lay in State—It is Estimated that 75,000 Viewed the Remains and that 25,000 Were Still in Line and Turned Away When It Was Time for the Ceremonies.

Tens of thousands of men, women and children stood in line for hours, slowly moving toward the house of Dr. Harding, waiting their turn for a last look at their honored President and respected fellow townsman.

Late President's remains leaving his father's residence, from which place he was buried as friend and neighbor of Marion's citizens.

CAPITAL PAYS ITS FINAL TRIBUTE TO LATE PRESIDENT

Washington, Aug. 11.—The capital paid its last official tribute to its dead chief yesterday. Under leaden sky the city devoted itself to a day of sorrow and prayer. Government buildings were closed, as were all places of business. Memorial services were held in all churches. The white house, the various departments where prominent officials hold forth, all were deserted. Just as the busy wheels of government have halted, so did the hum of business. Out of the quiet at 4 o'clock, bugles sounded taps. It was a signal that President Harding's body was being consigned to its last resting place. Every moving vehicle halted and pedestrians reverently bowed their heads for two minutes. At Calvary Baptist church, where President and Mrs. Harding worshipped, memorial services were conducted by the congregation. At every church of every denomination services were held during the day. In all of the Catholic churches prayers were said for the late president.

HIGHWAYS JAMMED BY AUTOS FRIDAY

Marion, O., Aug. 11.—Three thousand national guardsmen, who had charge of policing the city during the Harding obsequies, were withdrawn this morning and Marion is again normal.

Feeding the thousands who crowded into the city from every part of the country taxed the restaurants. No rooms in hotels were available. Thousands walked the streets all night or rested on lawns along the sidewalks.

Automobiles jammed the highways for 50 miles in every direction. The prairies were alive last night with automobile lights. Thousands of cars were parked in fields outside the city and their occupants slept in them during the night.

Long after the funeral crowds continued to move about the Harding residence, where the body of the president had laid before the interment.

BODY RECOVERED.

Alliance, O., Aug. 11.—The body of Emmet Pettit, drowned at Lake Brady while out boating July 22, was recovered by life guards. A cottager at the lake noticed the body and notified park officials. Pettit was rowing two women, Mrs. Helen Schwab of Alliance and Miss Margaret Craige of Cleveland, across the lake when the boat capsized. The two women were rescued.

Styles BY LENORE

One of those costumes that are "different" even in these days of a multitude of varying ideas in fashion, takes a brightly patterned silk crepe frock as a foundation, and wears over it what might be called a sleeveless coat of plain silk crepe, in a color that repeats the ground color of the printed silk. The coat is entirely opened down the front, and is belted.

with suede in the same color or with a belt of its own material, and there is a tiny pocket to hold a handkerchief made of the printed silk.

As you have guessed from the sketch the foundation frock is made with a frill and collar that are worn outside the coat, or slip, and the skirt may be plain or pleated. Needless to emphasize the advantage of this sort of costume for traveling, or for those slightly cool days that do come to us even in August.

AUTOIST BADLY HURT.

Washington C. H., O., Aug. 11.—Forest Putman of Frankfort, found beside his truck in a cornfield, where the truck had stopped after plunging through a fence, is in a semi-conscious condition, and is believed to have suffered a stroke of paralysis.

A beautiful roof of VULCANITE "HEXAGON" SLABS

Think of a handsome, red or green slate-surfaced roof—a roof of distinctive design—a roof that gives unusual protection as well as adds beauty and attractiveness to your home.

The Vulcanite "Hexagon" Slab Shingles, shown above, make such a roof. Their artistic slate surface; heavy, tough rigidity; and patented, hexagon design, produce an extra thick roof, with a deep, tile effect. They are easy and economical to lay over roof boards or old shingles—assure years of satisfactory service and give the best possible protection against fire and severe storms.

If you want a roof that will last 10, 15, even 20 years, inspect these Vulcanite "Hexagon" Slab Shingles. Let us give you the details.

HARDING MARTYR TO NATION SAYS FESS-URGES 6 YEAR TERM

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 11.—Calling President Harding a martyr to the nation as much as any soldier who fell in battle, because he died while carrying his message to the country, Ohio's junior senator, Simeon D. Fess, at a public memorial service at Music Hall, yesterday afternoon, declared in favor of congressional action to eliminate many of the burdens of the chief executive, that presidents might not be overworked.

Speaking before 5,000 persons, Senator Fess urged a six year presidential term without re-election and removal from the president's shoulders of many minor duties that should be to him from the various government departments.

"The time is coming when we must do something to save the president from the weight of his responsibilities," he said. "I think we shall have to adopt the six-year idea. Eight years is far too much for any man—even the strongest."

"We must not insist that our presidents tour the country, making speeches and shaking hands with everyone."

"President Harding during his tour, made 36 addresses. It would tax the strength to prepare one, to say nothing of delivering it. With a constitution weakened by such a drain, resistance would be next to impossible."

MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD BY ROTARY

An impressive memorial services for the late President Warren G. Harding, was held by the Xenia Rotary Club, at the Elks' Lodge, Friday at noon.

The late president's favorite hymn "Lead Kindly Light," was sung at the opening by Mr. A. B. Kester. The Rev. V. F. Brown, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, delivered a memorial address, dealing with the early life of Mr. Harding. He stressed the cleanness of Mr. Harding's presidential campaign, and gave excerpts from a number of newspaper editorials commenting on the President's death.

Dr. B. R. McClellan led the Rotarians in prayer. About thirty club members attended the services.

TUT-ANKH-AMEN SUBJECT OF TALK AT BIBLE CONFERENCE

On Sunday afternoon at three o'clock Dr. George L. Robinson of McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, is expected to talk to the Xenia Bible Conference on King Tut-Ankh-Amen and the application to immortality. The service will be held as usual in the First M. E. Church and like all services of the Lord's Day is open to the public free of charge.

At seven o'clock Sunday evening State Secretary of the Ohio Christian Endeavor Union will give his closing Vesper talk on the topic, "For Christ and the Church." At eight o'clock Dr. Robinson will give the closing address of the conference of 1923.

Saturday evening will feature the Hon. J. H. T. Gordon, a member of the Ohio General Assembly who will speak of some of the moral issues before the legislature of the Buckeye state. Mr. Freet speaks also at seven o'clock.

Friday evening was occupied by Dr. Robinson in his popular lecture on "Walks About Jerusalem." Having lived in Jerusalem for several years the speaker was amply able to give vivid descriptions of places figuring largely in the life of our Lord. Gethsemane and the Mount of Olives were described but the main portion of the evening was spent on the walk to Emmaus. Three sites claim an interest as being possible roads Jesus took. The one the speaker inclined to is twenty-two miles from Jerusalem. This would mean a steep declivity and would involve a night walk of 22 miles to Jerusalem on the part of the two after their eyes had been opened. The Arab could do it in three hours. It means deepest interest on the part of the two to retrace their footsteps at this time of night and ascend the steep road.

It was not the custom for orientals to discuss while walking and our Master must have been caught by the very fact that these two were breaking away from the usual custom. Several things stand out, first, the opening of the Scriptures and the burning hearts; second, the likelihood of seeing the risen Lord is far greater when people are talking about Him; third, Jesus became known to them in his prayer and people reveal themselves in their prayers.

All Xenia is cordially invited to attend every service of the conference free of charge the closing day and make it a great occasion.

A NEW NOVEL

Worth the Price of a Whole Years Subscription

WHICH WOULD YOU CHOOSE

POVERTY or RICHES

Which would you choose? But wait—

Poverty, with a clear conscience, a free mind, a fairly happy heart, a constant hope of better times;

Or riches, with a sickening fear of you know not what, a gnawing suspicion, a growing disgust.

Read the new novel.

"A WIFE'S STORY"

BY JANE PHELPS

THE PROOF OF THE PUDDING

The proof of the pudding, they say, is in the eating. The test of a life is in the living—but many a married life could be made happier and safer if some of the tests were applied before matrimony, instead of waiting for the acid test of experience to enlighten youth.

Ruby Atkins met Paul Norwood and married him. About all she knew of him was that he had crinkly hair and fine shoulders and—was her husband.

But what she and her daughters learned of him later is told in

"A WIFE'S STORY"

Jane Phelps, the popular author of newspaper serials, tells the story of a family that knew the pain of poverty and the evils of prosperity, and finally made their choice.

WARREN G. HARDING; APOSTLE OF HUMANITY.

From the "National Republican."—President Harding was an isolationist only in the sense that he believed in the maintenance of American institutions and American ideals. He believed in the smallest possible measure of international political involvement, but that this nation should hold up the torch of freedom and hold forth the hand of humanity to every nation needing whatever help this republic could render without the possible sacrifice of our own safety and character as a nation.

If every American could catch something of the spirit of consecrated citizenship which lifted the dead President to the heights of an exalted statesmanship, no one need fear for the future of the nation. In him glowed anew the spirit of Washington and Lincoln. Lifted above the thought of self, his prayers were breathed and his service rendered in behalf of the people he loved and who in turn loved him.

Yet most of all we think, in this hour of national bereavement, of the boundless humanity of Warren G. Harding; of his love of parents and wife and neighbors; of men and women and children; of his neighbors in Marion and of his hundred and ten million neighbors in the nation. It is all a symbol of that upon which, after all, hangs the future of the republic and of the world. Love is the greatest thing not only in the life of the individual, but in the life of the nation and of all humanity. There ought to be in the heart of every American a resolution that the generosity, the kindness, the sympathy and the friendliness which characterized Warren G. Harding shall hereafter play a larger part in the lives of all of us.

Men and women like Warren G. Harding, whether in lowly estate or in the world's greatest posts of power, do not die with the laying of their bodies in the grave. Their influence lingers, in proportion to the sphere of their influence, to sweeten and broaden life; to make it more worth the living; to spur men on to higher ideals and nobler motives. Great as was the public service of President Harding, it is not improbable that a greater service still will be rendered to Americans of the future by the enduring remembrance of his goodness, his kindness, his consecration to public service, his devotion to duty. Coming from the lowly walks of life to the highest pinnacle of power it is possible for a human being to attain, the life of this man teaches anew that

"Kind hearts are more than coronets
And simple faith than Norman blood."

A MAN EQUAL TO THE EMERGENCY.

The "National Republican" was not wrong in its estimate of the character and caliber of Calvin Coolidge, or the breadth and wisdom of President Harding in his attitude toward the Vice Presidency. Under President Harding the Vice President was called to the inner council chamber of the nation; he was made a real part of the executive branch of the national government. The wisdom of that policy has been again, justified by events; by reason of it the new President comes to the discharge of his duties with a complete understanding of the problems of the administration and of the attitude of the dead executive toward them.

Vice President Coolidge's attitude toward his chief has been one of admirable propriety. Without ostentation or advertisement he has gone ahead in his characteristically quiet way in loyal, effective support of the national administration. As President Harding's attitude toward the Vice Presidency set a new precedent of generosity and wisdom, so Vice President Coolidge's complete identification with the administration of his President stands forth in fine contrast with the conduct of some of his predecessors.

Fortunate indeed is the nation in that a man of full presidential size was at hand to take up the heavy duties, the tremendous responsibilities of the Presidency at a time like this, when President Harding fell under the burden too heavy for one of his physical strength. Every word said and left unsaid, every act done and left undone, by the new President since the death of President Harding has deeply impressed the American people as indicative of strength of intellect and of character adequate to the great task committed to President Coolidge.

The National Republican predicts that the American people, who have had no low estimate of the capacity of Mr. Coolidge, will find in him qualities of leadership beyond their expectations. There has never before been a time in our national history when courage and decision were more urgently needed in national leadership. These qualities are the outstanding characteristics of President Coolidge—a man who thinks much, talks little and acts only upon the basis of matured judgment reached after reflection and conference.

WILL HISTORY REPEAT ITSELF NEXT WINTER?

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

The public library was burglarized last night, the work being characterized by considerably boldness. An entrance into the room was effected but only a few dollars were secured.

The boys composing Company I, 4th Regiment, Ohio National Guard, of this city, are making great preparations for the annual encampment at Newark next week.

The Library Board met yesterday and opened the bids for the construction of the new Carnegie Library. Several bids had been submitted and were taken under consideration. The ladies will announce their decision in a day or two.

At a meeting of the Board of Public Service yesterday Mr. Frank H. Dean, the attorney, was selected as clerk of the board.

Readers of this column have kindly contributed the following recipes for the benefit of other Readers Friends:

N. A. "Brown Cake: Cream together three-fourths of a cup of butter and one and three-fourths of a cup of sugar. Add three-fourths of a cup of buttermilk in which is dissolved one-half teaspoon of soda, the beaten yolks of three eggs, and three cups of flour mixed and sifted with one heaping teaspoon of baking powder and the following spices: one-half teaspoon of ground cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon, and one teaspoon of ground nutmeg. Stir in three tablespoons of dry cocoa, and one teaspoon of vanilla, then pour one cup of boiling water over all (after the cake has been mixed and beaten. Stir a moment, then turn the batter into a buttered loaf-cake pan and bake 40 minutes in a medium-hot oven."

Mrs. P. O. "Oz Pie: Mix together the yolks of four eggs and two cups of granulated sugar; add one tablespoon of melted butter, one cup of either English walnut meats or pecan-nut meats, one cup of raisins, two tablespoons of vinegar, the stiffly-whipped whites of the three eggs and, last, add one teaspoon each of the ground cinnamon and cloves. Bake with eye crust and serve topped with whipped cream. This recipe makes two fillings, but you can halve it if you wish."

E. S. W.: "Quick Chocolate Dessert: Blend well in the top of a double boiler one cup of sugar, three-fourths of a cup of flour and three tablespoons of dry cocoa powder. Put the pan into the lower part of boiler (containing rapidly boiling water) and add, gradually, two cups of boiling water to this dry mixture. Stir till thick, then remove from fire and add a pinch of salt and one teaspoon of vanilla. Turn the mixture into a pudding dish and, when cold, serve with cream—either whipped or plain."

EASING THE CONSCIENCE
I've troublesome conscience, insistent and shrill,
And it frequently talks when it ought to keep still.
I should leave it at home when I wander away
To haunts where I know I'll be tempted to play.
But it follows wherever I go, at my side,
And no peace can I find until it's satisfied.

Now this morning I ought to stay in and attack
The work I must do which has grown to a stack
My conscience insists that these tasks must be done,
But the lake's like a sapphire which mirrors the sun.
So I say to my conscience: "Toile's payment is wealth,
And a fishing trip now would be good for my health."

At noon says my conscience: "You ought to sit down
And write, for they're waiting for copy in town."
I vow that I will, but some golfer I know
Drops in with his clubs and says: "Come on! Let's go!"
And I say to my conscience, "This weather won't last,
And the winter is long and the summer goes fast."

My guide is my conscience, a hard one to please,
It takes many excuses to keep it at ease—
A friend is worth keeping. All work and no play
Puts a man in the madhouse, I frequently say;
Just another day longer my tasks I will shirk,
And I promise my conscience: "Tomorrow I'll work."

Today's Talk

HEAVEN

No matter how beautifully heaven may be described to us, there shall always remain within our consciousness an eternal mystery as to where it is, and as to what it is.

Long ago I ceased to worry about heaven as some place beyond life. Rather did I begin to realize that heaven is a place that we build for ourselves right here and now.

I think of my mother in heaven—but when I do, I think of her in my heart and in the hearts and lives of those to whom she was so dear.

If God walks around in this world—as I believe He does—then this must be His heaven, where He loves to be.

I believe that every time we do an act, or speak a word, or write a thought, we plant a seed that will in time flower and scent with great fragrance this heaven of ours.

Bring the smile to a baby's face start the blood to warming a discouraged human being, or lend a hand that shall lead one who has become weak from stumbling, and you may be well assured that you are a regular citizen in a beautiful heaven.

I wouldn't want to go to a heaven where the streets were of gold and the people sat around "on flowery beds of ease." I would like to see great activity in the heaven that I would live in—where children would be fed decently and where every man would have his chance to perform in fit and useful manner.

Wherever I see happiness I see heaven.

Wherever love breeds, there you will find heaven—whether it be in the centre of some rude hovel or in the palace of some king. Heaven is in time flower and scent with great

MRS. LINDQUIST TELLS WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one thought I could ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to suffer. I had to go to bed at times to be perfectly quiet as I could not even stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor was frank enough to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to see in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun its use and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."

WAVE OF STRIKES HITS BERLIN AS MONEY DEMANDED

Berlin, Aug. 11.—A wave of strikes has broken over Berlin.

With the slogan, "No Money, No Work," perhaps 250,000 workmen engaged in a home brand of passive resistance in factories and workshops, or laid down their work altogether and marched out.

Two causes are held directly responsible for the strike epidemic. They are money famine and the slowness with which wages are being adjusted to meet the depreciation of the mark in the past few days.

The employees of the so-called "money press" walked out to enforce their demand for a living wage.

With the entire country already in distress and chaos because of the government's inability to turn out money fast enough, the news of the money printers' strike spread new gloom that traveled quickly. The supply of paper money available already is too limited to allow for the making up of payrolls, daily purchases by citizens and the transaction of business in general.

As soon as the news of the money printers' strike had spread through the great industrial centers near Berlin 30,000 employees of the General Electric company struck and marched out of the works. At the Siemens-Schuckert plant another 30,000 remained in the factory, but refused to do any work. At the reichstag deputations of workmen endeavored to enter the galleries to make a demonstration, but were driven back by the police.

With all money exhausted the reichsbank and all other banks in Berlin have closed their doors. Hundreds of people besieged the banks in vain efforts to get money.

Later the employees of the money press resumed their work after Chancellor Cuno personally had intervened and the government had complied in large part to the demands of the printers.

DAYTON SEEKING TO RETAIN BEN PIERS

Plans to retain Ben Piers, former Xenian, as head of the Dayton Recreational Department were discussed at a meeting of officials of the Dayton Bureau of Community Service and the Dayton Playground and Garden Association Friday.

Piers resigned recently because of insufficient salary. He has been head of the department three years announcing his resignation to take effect the latter part of September. Members of the organizations interested expressed themselves Friday as willing to increase the salary to keep Piers in Dayton.

H. D. Wehrly, executive secretary of the Bureau of Community Service said "Dayton recreation activities under the direction of Mr. Piers have been improved to such an extent that it would mean the loss of years experience to allow Mr. Piers to leave the position."

Piers said nothing regarding the possibility of staying in Dayton. "I have made all my plans to leave at the end of the summer playground season although developments might arise that would result in my remaining in Dayton," he said.

STREETCAR STRIKE LOOMS.

Lima, O., Aug. 11.—Suspension of streetcar service tonight is practically certain, it became known when officials of the Lima City Street railway and the local union broke off negotiations. Point of difference between the company and the men is in regard to the renewal of a working agreement, which expired during the war period and was not renewed then because of the financial condition of the railway.

SPORT

AMERICA TO MEET ENGLAND ON COURT FFOR TENNIS HONOR

New York, August 11.—America will meet England, with the old familiar tug at the heart strings that all international meetings engender on the courts of the West Side Tennis Club, at Forest Hills, L. I., this afternoon. It will be the premiere of a series between the women players of two great nations.

America will be represented by Mrs. Molla B. Mallory, perennial champion of the nation; Miss Helen Wills, 17, but gifted; Miss Eleanor Goss, and Mrs. Hazel Hotchkiss Wightman. The case for England will be offered by Miss Kitty McKane, Miss Geraldine Beamish, Mrs. R. C. Clayton and Mrs. B. C. Covell. Miss McKane is ranked, unofficially as runner up to Suzanne Lenglen of the temperament on European courts.

Miss Beamish is a veteran campaigner with several victories over Mrs. Mallory and Mrs. Clayton also has scored over the American. Formal dedication of the New West Side stadium, the first known to American tennis, will precede the matches, which are scheduled to start at 2:30.

To Miss Wills will go the distinction of being the first American to hit a tennis ball in competition in the stadium. She will face Miss McKane in the opening singles.

In the remaining matches, Mrs. Mallory will play Mrs. Clayton in singles and the doubles combination of Mrs. Wightman and Mrs. Goss is named against the British team of Miss McKane and Mrs. Covell. By all accounts the latter should win. They have played together often while no two members of the American squad have ever teamed up in competition.

Mrs. Mallory is the American hope. She retrieved a rather indifferent showing abroad, when she scored successively over Miss McKane and Mrs. Clayton at Seabright, and it is figured that she may be able to repeat in the present event.

The British, however, were just off the gangplank when they played at Seabright and were hardly up to their best. It is believed that they have become acclimated in the meantime. As matters stand a defeat in the doubles, said to be almost inevitable would force the Americans to win four of the five singles matches to score a victory as a team.

YELLOW SPRINGS TO START SERIES WITH BAYLIFTS SUNDAY

In what should prove to be a good baseball game the Bayliffs will tackle the Yellow Springs Athletics Sunday afternoon at Washington Park.

Both clubs are now recognized as two of the strongest in this part of Ohio and a win by either club is of much importance.

The club representing Yellow Springs this year is said to be one of the strongest in its history. So far this season they have taken the scalps of the Fairborn nine three times, and have defeated Harshmanville, once. The Athletics were beaten by the North Dayton Merchants. The Athletics have a bunch of clouters in Bales, Day, Little and Hackett and these lads are liable to break up a game at most any time.

The calibre of the Bayliffs is well established and the fans are well satisfied that the team that beats them must step lively. The Bayliffs have a bunch of dangerous batsmen and are liable to go on a batting rampage at any time. The Bayliff batsmen have been hitting in the pinches here of late and this is just what it takes in order to win a game. The defense of the locals is perfect. Tredeavan will pitch for the Athletics. The Bayliffs with Free on the mound and Bob Herman in reserve expect to give their followers a good run for their money. The game will start at 3 o'clock with Norris in charge.

FIRPO IS TAKEN SERIOUSLY; JACK DEMPSEY TRAINS

Saratoga, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Jack Dempsey does not underestimate Luis Firpo's fighting ability.

"I don't see how anyone can say Firpo is a poor fighter when few people have seen him of his feet," Dempsey said. "He has met some pretty good hitters, and they haven't been able to put him down. I've watched Firpo's fights very closely since he came to America the last time, and I notice he always is home in front. A man who is not game may win some of the fights, but he isn't going to win all his fights, and if Firpo wasn't dead game, it would have come out before this. Firpo is the biggest and strongest man I've met since I fought Willard. I'll be giving height and reach and poundage to him. He has been fighting regularly and has scored 11 knockouts in a dozen fights. Wouldn't I be foolish to underestimate such a man?"

RESERVES THROW GAUNTLET DOWN TO OTHER CITY TEACMS

The Xenia Reserves will play a double header Sunday afternoon at Reserve Park, Cincinnati Avenue. The first game will be with the fast Bowersville nine and will start at 3:45 o'clock. The second game will bring together the Reserves and the Dayton Independents. This game will be over about the same time that the regular Sunday afternoon games are finished.

The first game will be a thriller as the Bowersville bunch has a nifty nine and has taken the measure of everything around here. Manager Fowermeister, in order to cop this game will start his star twirler, Dick Wells, who pitched for the Binders in the city league. Wells is young but has plenty of stuff and he will give the Reserves a merry time of it.

The second contest with the Independents should be an interesting affair. The Dayton bunch has just organized and so far has been playing superb ball.

The Reserves after having dropped a game to the sturdy Wayneville nine will attempt to make a comeback and take both games. Manager Chambliss has secured a few new players. Weaver will probably pitch and Ciphers and McPherson who may work the first contest. Both of these hurlers are good and will make things hot for the Bowersville bunch. Daidman, who played first for the Studetakers are been signed by the Reserves for the rest of the season.

The Reserves will lineup as follows: Daidman or DeAtley at first, E. Leahy at second, Milburn at short, Ciphers at third, Shaw or M. Leahy in left field, Johnson in center, Holland or Botoroff in right, Wilson or Green will catch.

Bowersville will present the following lineup: Spear at first, Herold Spear at second, N. Murrell at short, Briggs at third, Bowermaster, Shaw and Glass in the field, D. Murrell will catch while Wells will pitch.

The admission will be 35 cents to all. There will be a prize given away with every hundred tickets sold. L. Rachford will umpire both games.

RESERVES TO OFFER FAS TWO GAMES FOR SUDAY AFTERNOON

The Reserve Baseball Club, claiming it has played first class ball all season, now claims the right to challenge the Xenia Bayliffs and the Xenia Red Sox for the city championship.

The Reserves will play each of these teams a series of two out of three games, with a 60 per cent win and 40 per cent loss, or regular 50-50 split on the gate receipts. The Reserves further offer to play the first game on their opponents' diamond, the second to be played at Reserve Park and the third by agreement.

The Reserves claim they answered a challenge of the Bayliffs some time ago, but received no answer. If the Bayliffs and Red Sox do not answer through the columns of this paper within one week saying they will play, the Reserves will claim the championship of the city and the management will book games ahead with out of town teams for the balance of the season.

If either team wants to take up the challenge it should answer through this paper and be ready to sign a contract within a week.

DEPOSED MANAGER OF BROWNS WILL PILOT RED SOX

New York, August 11.—According to a report today, Lee Fohl, deposed as manager of the St. Louis Browns, will be appointed leader of the Boston Red Sox at the end of the present season, replacing Frank Chance. The latter, it is declared, is to take charge of another American League Club, identity not disclosed.

In addition, it is reported that Ty Cobb will retire at the end of the season as manager of the Detroit Tigers to become club owner. His successor will be Bill Donovan who once managed the Yankees and Phillies. Donovan is at present in charge of the New Haven Club of the Eastern league.

JAMESTOWN MAN SWEARS OUT WARRANT

A man giving his name as John Paden, was arrested at Jeffersonville Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Wolfe of Fayette County. He is alleged to have fleeced John Perry, Jamestown, secretary of the Jamestown lodge of Masons, out of $10.

Paden is alleged to have presented a Masonic receipt from a Kansas City Lodge, believed to have been falsely obtained, and told Perry his wife had lost her pocketbook, containing all their money. He asked for $10 which he promised to return and it was readily given.

After Paden had left, Perry remembered he had received a circular warning against a man using similar operations to defraud Masons and asked help from Fayette County authorities. Paden was arrested with his wife in a Jeffersonville hotel.

FARM NEWS OF GREENE COUNTY

TOBACCO GROWERS OF MIAMI VALLEY TO BE PRESENTED WITH CO-OP PLANS

Miami Valley tobacco growers are to be presented with the plans of the Miami Valley Tobacco Growers' Co-operative Association, at a series of six meetings, beginning Monday, Aug. 6, throughout the valley.

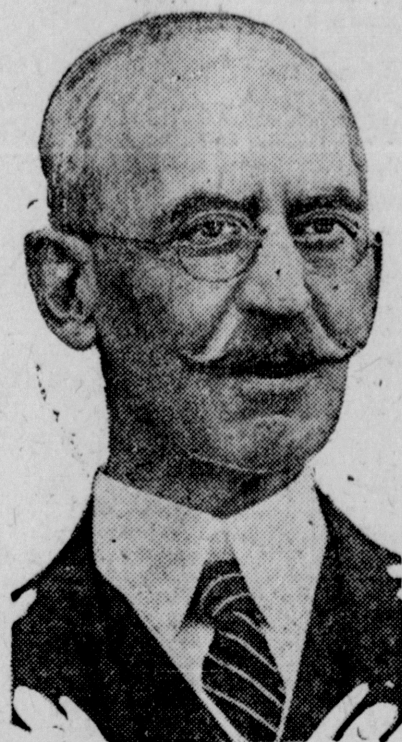

The only township in Greene County effected by the tobacco growers' organization is Sugarcreek township where most of the growers are located. Only a few growers are scattered over the remainder of the county. A meeting will be called at Bellbrook soon, to take the matter of organization up according to Ford S. Prince, County Farm Bureau Agent. The first of the meetings scheduled for the Miami Valley district, was held last Monday at Dayton, at the Y. M. C. A. Building, at seven o'clock in the evening. Another meeting was held Tuesday, at Eaton, Wednesday a meeting will be held at Middletown. The Thursday meeting is scheduled for Franklin, with the final meeting at Greenville, Friday.

Each of the meetings will be addressed by Charles E. Marvin, a central Kentucky farmer, who is one of the leaders in the Burley Tobacco Growers' Association. David Bill in charge of the tobacco field service.

FARM BUREAU TO MEET.

A regular meeting of the Miami Township Farm Bureau will be held Tuesday night at Yellow Springs.

Gen. Crowder is Recalled to Discuss Cuba

Gen. E. H. Crowder.

Major-General Enoch H. Crowder, who managed the draft in the World War and who is now American Ambassador to Cuba, has been recalled to Washington for conferences with officials of the State Department. The action of the Cuban Congress in passing the State Lottery bill over the protests of America and over the Cuban President's veto, adding to it a gratuitous note that it was none of America's business and condemning American "interference," is believed to be the topic that will be discussed.

THE MISFIT

By Jane Phelps

MRS. CRANDELL ARRIVES Chapter LXX

The day the steamer was to arrive Natalie filled Mrs. Crandell's rooms with flowers, also taking special pains with those for the table. She spoke to the cook about the dinner, but was told that the cook knew just what Mrs. Crandell liked after a journey and had made her preparations accordingly.

Rebuffed Natalie wandered about the rooms until she could endure the strain no longer. The boat was very late, would not dock until afternoon, so Horace had telephoned her, and so she dressed for the street and went to all on Beverly Rainsford. Beverly had often been to the house, had admired what Natalie had done to her rooms; had sympathized that she was not allowed to do more for Mrs. Crandell. It was but natural she should go to her. Horace would meet his mother, come up with her.

Beverly insisted she stay to lunch. But Natalie left soon after, saying:

"I don't suppose she will care, but I want to be there when Mrs. Crandell arrives."

Unfortunately, Horace had been mistaken in the time the boat would dock, and when he called to correct his mistake, Natalie had gone out. When she entered the hall she found it piled high with luggage and heard Horace and his mother talking animatedly in Mrs. Crandell's rooms. She hurried to them.

"Oh, I am so sorry to be out when you came!" she exclaimed, holding out her hand to Mrs. Crandell, but it was Horace's fault. He telephoned the steamer would not dock for an hour yet."

"Horace told you what the steamship office informed him," his mother answered. But she took Natalie's hand.

"Welcome home," Natalie forced herself to say. She felt chilled, yet she expected nothing more. She would not have dared to offer a kiss.

"Yes, it is good to be here," Mrs. Crandell said. "Very good."

Natalie noticed with a little wave of commotion that she looked old, very weary.

"You are very tired with your journey. Is there anything I can do to help you?" her voice was gentle.

"No, thank you. The servants will attend to everything."

For a few moments Natalie stood awkwardly by, then quietly slipped from the room.

In her own rooms she pressed her hands over her hot eyes. She was of no use here, was not wanted. She longed to weep, but Horace would be sure to notice and ask the cause.

"I shall always be a misfit here,—always the cabbage that no amount of grafting can make into a rose," she muttered. Then she threw up her head and added: "I will bear it Horace's sake," just as he called blithely:

"Sitting all alone, Natalie? Mother is going to lie down until dinner time. She looks very tired, don't you think? He evidently had no idea things had gone wrong with Natalie, no slightest suspicion that she was hurt.

"Yes, she does look tired. But after she has been at home a few days she will feel better."

"It was almost pitiful to see how glad she was to be back," Horace went on. "I believe she would have died had she remained away much longer. Now that we are all together again I hope she will be her dear old self, yet I feel uneasy about her. She has grown old too fast. She was always so self-sufficient; now she seems to lean on me; I noticed the change at once," Horace sighed heavily.

"Don't feel badly, Horace. She will pick up soon," Natalie encouraged, as warmly as she could.

"God grant it," he said. "I can't help feeling we should have insisted upon an early reply and had her spend the summer with us. It would have been wonderful to have had her."

To this Natalie made no reply, but involuntarily she shivered. It seemed almost profanation to talk of having her mother-in-law share their marvelous summer—the summer whose memories were to give her strength to do what she knew to be her duty.

SEVERELY BRUISED IN AUTO CRASH

Rupert Irwin, of East Second Street was severely cut and bruised, when the Ford roadster in which he was riding, overturned in a ditch on the Wilmington pike, near Wilmington, Friday night.

The lights on the Ford car burned out, and when the driver attempted to put on his brakes, the machine skidded into the ditch. Irwin, the only occupant of the automobile, was cut on the arm, and received other minor cuts and bruises.

REPORT COMMUNIST RIOTS

London, Aug. 11—Communist riots broke out at Ratfbor, Germany, in which four persons were killed and 40 wounded, according to a Central News dispatch from Berlin this afternoon.

Stock Up the Pantry Shelves With The Best Of Things To Eat "E" Brand Products Are Delicious

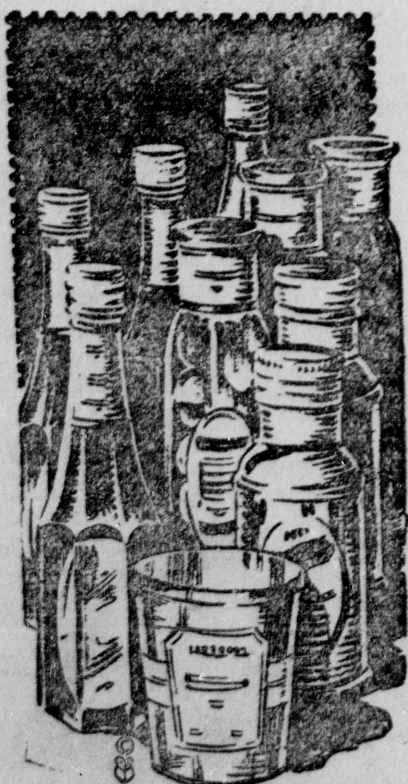

The home canning of foods is becoming a thing of the past. Scientific factory canning has reached a point of perfection and economy that makes it not only a saving of time and strength but a saving of money as well for the housekeeper to buy the ready canned goods.

STOCKING THE PANTRY SHELVES NO LONGER MEANS HOURS OF EXHAUSTING WORK IN A HOT KITCHEN. Instead the modern housekeeper buys the perfectly prepared, scrupulously clean, and altogether wholesome "E" Brand products. It helps solve the health problem, the servant problem and the problem of having enough time for modern demands.

THEY HAVE THE HOME COOKED FLAVOR

"We want the home cooked flavor" say many housekeepers. That is what you get in "E" Brand products. Every article is cooked by experts who see to it that the fruit or vegetables are not only perfectly prepared but have the delicious flavor usually found only in home cooked articles. Try them and you will agree that they cannot be excelled by the finest home cook.
